Ulster county failed to show signs of Democratic trends reported elsewhere, and based on unofficial returns today gave the Ives-McGovern ticket more than 200 votes above the 1950 total when Governor Thomas E. Dewey was elected.

Late reports from Ulster county were offsetting the earlier lead claimed by Democratic candidate for governor, Averell Harriman, and on an order received early today, both Sheriff Cluett Schantz and Police Chief Raymond VanBuren sent out men to assist and guard election inspectors in a county-wide check on all voting machines.

CHIEF VAN BUREN said he had assigned Lt. William Messing to accompany the inspectors and the sheriff's office reported that men had been sent out on similar duties in the county. Chief VanBuren said he had also assigned patrolmen to polling places.

State Senator Arthur H. Wicks, and other Republican candidates also were elected by substantial votes. The Wicks total was 25,473 with reports from five districts missing. This was 1,668 below his 1950 total, but reports from the missing districts were expected to cut down that difference.

THE IVES-McGOVERN ticket polled 27,702 votes against a Democratic total of 13,211, plus a liberal vote of 1,122. The Republican plurality was 13,369. Dewey won over his opponent Lynch in 1950 by 14,681 votes.

Senator Wicks defeated his opponent Callahan in 1950 by 14,911 votes. He won this year by 12,026 votes, with returns, not only unofficial, but incomplete.

CONTRARY TO the general trend in the county, the city total of 7,687 for the Ives-McGovern ticket was 607 under the Dewey total in 1950 and the Wicks total was 883 under the vote of that year.

The county and city also elected Kenneth L. Wilson to the state assembly, J. Ernest Wharton to Congress, and Lawrence D. Craft to the county clerkship, by substantial majorities.

Frank Del Vecchio, Republican candidate for comptroller, won substantially over Arthur Levitt, Democrat, and Jacob K. Javits, was far out in front against Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., who was on the Democratic and Liberal party tickets. Francis J. McCardle, unopposed Republican candidate for coroner, polled a large vote.

IN THE CITY Republican candidates came through solidly in all but the sixth, seventh and 13th wards, and Liberal Party votes were a factor in two wards where Republicans lost.

Ives and McGovern polled 7,687 votes in the city, based on unverified returns to police headquarters last night, as against 4,364 for Harriman and DeLuca on the Democratic ticket and

Race Is Closest In State History

Albany, Nov. (AP)—Late returns today cut to 9,160 Averell Harriman's lead over Sen. Irving M. Ives in their neck-and-neck race to succeed Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York.

...ruggle and another for the comptrollership was so close that ...mpounded the ballots pending an official canvass.

Wit... ... eight of the state's 10,436 districts unreported, Harriman, the Democratic-Liberal candidate, had rolled up 2,530,399 votes and Ives, the Republican nominee, 2,521,239.

The missing districts were in three rural upstate counties where Ives had piled up sizeable pluralities.

However, even the total vote in the unreported precincts was believed to be short of the number of votes Ives needed to overcome Harriman's lead.

But military ballots conceivably could enter the picture in a material way. The State Division of Servicemen's Voting said that it had issued about 15,000 ballots to persons in military service.

Of these, Division Counsel John J. Mauriel reported, 8,549 were received here before last Friday and were forwarded to county election boards. He said these presumably had been counted in the tabulations yesterday.

But since Friday the division has received 3,246 more ballots, Mauriel disclosed, and these are being held for safekeeping. County election boards will canvass them prior to Nov. 26 along with about 3,400 the division expected to arrive by the deadline —Nov. 23.

Rivaling the Harriman-Ives race for closeness was the battle between Arthur Levitt, Democrat-Liberal and Frank Del Vecchio, Republican for State Comptroller. With 22 districts missing, all upstate, Levitt held a lead of 11,275. His supporters believed it would survive any inroads made in reports from the missing precincts.

The governor ordered all police commissioners, chiefs and sheriffs to place guards in charge of voting machines and records pending an official recanvass of yesterday's photo-finish election. The recanvass was to begin immediately.

DEWEY ISSUED his order at 3 a. m., after a spectacular late surge by Harriman's Republican opponent, Sen. Irving M. Ives, had whittled the Democratic-Liberal candidate's lead almost to the vanishing point. With only 29 districts missing, Ives trailed Harriman by 11,671 votes.

Dewey's order followed a conference of top state Republicans, called in New York after midnight to "reassess" the election returns.

IVES CONCEDED defeat at 10:16 last night, but his come-from-behind spurt changed the picture.

The gubernatorial contest was the closest in this state since Franklin D. Roosevelt, making his first bid for the governorship, defeated Albert Ottinger by 26,000 votes in 1928.

Harriman's most prominent running mate in yesterday's dramatic election, Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., was defeated decisively by Republican Jacob K. Javits for attorney general.

WITH ONLY 30 of the state's 10,436 election districts unreported, Javits had rolled up a plurality of 176,092. Both are New York city lawyers and both gave up congressional seats to run for the state office.

Arthur H. Levitt, the Democratic-Liberal candidate for comptroller, had a slender plurality of 22,358 over Frank Del Vecchio, Syracuse lawyer, with 141 districts—all in Republican upstate—unreported. Levitt is president of the New York city board of education.

In the only other statewide contest—for associate judge of the Court of Appeals—Adrian Burke, New York city corporation counsel, running on the Democratic and Liberal tickets, apparently defeated Sydney F. Foster, Liberty Republican and presiding justice of the Appellate Division in Albany.

With 924 districts, all upstate, unreported, Burke's edge was 239,390.

THE DEMOCRATS picked up one congressional seat, making the New York Republican majority 26 to 17.

The Democrats gained five seats in the State Senate, which will have 58 members in 195...

One Vote Is For Roy Cohn

Roy M. Cohn, of New York, former chief counsel for the McCarthy Senate Investigations subcommittee, polled one write-in vote for attorney general Tuesday in the second election district of Esopus.

This vote was given in Port Ewen at the polling place, Beichert's garage.

The Associated Press also reported today that at Garrison, Putnam county, Cohn was given 22 write-in ballots.

President Not Upset By Voting

Sees No Rejection Of His Policies

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he sees no repudiation or disapproval of his administration's policies in Republican loss of the House to the Democrats.

The President also said, in response to a question, that so far as he can see at this time the election outcome will have no effect one way or the other on whether he seeks a second term in 1956.

Eisenhower said there was plenty of time for that decision, and suggested that reporters wait and see what develops.

THE PRESIDENT told a news conference he plans to consult with the Democratic congressional leaders—as well as Republican—on both domestic and international matters during the new session of Congress convening in January.

With a trace of a smile, the Chief Executive said he sees no point in butting his head against a stone wall.

At the time of the conference, 10:30 a. m., Democrats had clinched control of the House. Party control of the Senate still was in doubt.

Eisenhower volunteered at the outset of his session with newsmen, that in a lot of cases he was absolutely astonished and surprised by the election outcome.

The first question put to the President was whether he saw any disapproval of administration policies in Republican loss of the House.

Eisenhower hesitated momentarily, then said no, he saw no disapproval in the outcome. He added that so far he had not attempted to make any analysis of the results, but will do so when complete returns are available.

GOP Fights To Hold On To Senate

House Control Is Lost to Democrats

By JACK BELL
AP Political Reporter

Republicans battled desperately today to hold the Senate as a surging tide of votes from yesterday's midterm election gave Democrats control of the House and toppled seven GOP governors.

Republican hopes of retaining the Senate's half a loaf in the battle over Congress focused on tabulations in New Jersey, Montana and Oregon as Democrats won four GOP seats and the Republicans took three from their opponents.

WITH THREE RACES undecided, the Senate count stood:

Republicans 46, including 13 just elected and 33 holdovers; Democrats 46, including 22 elected yesterday and 24 holdovers; 1 Independent, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Republican Rep. George Bender of Ohio crashed through to defeat Democratic Sen. Thomas A. Burke in unofficial tabulations and bring the Republicans abreast of the Democrats after Democratic former Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney had taken a GOP seat in Wyoming.

The situation in the three remaining critical races was this:

NEW JERSEY—With all of the state's 3,998 precincts counted, Republican Clifford P. Case had 856,822 votes and Democratic Rep. Charles R. Howell 856,302, but some clerks were revising their figures and some absentee ballots remained uncounted.

MONTANA—In 886 of 1,094 precincts, Democratic Sen. James E. Murray had 95,556 votes and Republican Rep. Wesley A. D'Ewart had 92,904.

OREGON — Republican Sen. Guy Cordon had 185,308 votes to 175,570 for Democrat Richard L.

GOP Still Is Boss Of Legislature

Albany, Nov. 3 (AP)—Plump Republican majorities of 30 votes in the Assembly and 10 in the Senate will pose legislative puzzlers for Democrat Averell Harriman, elected governor in unofficial returns.

The GOP dropped 13 seats in the Legislature in yesterday's election. But for the ninth straight time it swept to control of both House, by margins of 90-60 in the Assembly and 34-24 in the Senate.

DEMOCRATS chalked up a net gain of eight Assembly posts and five Senate seats, chopping the Republican edge from 95-52 and 37-19 respectively. One normally Republican Assembly seat was vacant during the 1954 session. Two Senate seats have been added by reapportionment.

Loss of the governor's office put the GOP leadership in state government affairs into the hands of Walter J. Mahoney of Buffalo, majority leader of the Senate, and Oswald D. Heck of Schenectady, speaker of the Assembly.

It will be up to Sen. Francis J. Mahoney of Manhattan and Assemblyman Eugene F. Bannigan of Brooklyn, Democratic minority leaders of their Houses, to push Harriman's Legislature program.

All four were re-elected to the Legislature and most probably will be returned to their leadership duties when the two Houses are organized in January for the 1955 session.

THIRTY SEATS are required to control the 58-member Senate and 76 to organize the 150-member Assembly. Republicans have dominated the Assembly since 1938.

Not a single incumbent Democrat was unseated yesterday. Seven Republican Senators and nine assemblyman fell by the wayside.

The GOP picked up part of its losses in the Senate by winning two seats—one each in Onondaga and Nassau counties—that were created by reapportionment last year and filled for the first time in this election.

It cut down Democratic Assembly gains by a net seat through a combination redistricting.

The major GOP Senate casualties were Bernard Tompkins of Queens, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee that probed charity racketeering last year; Milton Koerner of Queens, chairman of the General Law Committee, and John G. Mac Donald of Staten Island, chair-

Rockland Says Job Impossible

New City, Nov. 3 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's order for guards to be placed over state voting machines led to confusion and difficulty in Rockland county today.

Sheriff S. Henry Mock said it was impossible to obtain enough qualified men to guard machines around the clock in the county's 71 election districts.

He figured it would take 210 men a day, working in three shifts, to do the job and said this number of men could not be obtained. Chiefs of police in various towns agreed with him.

MOCK SAID that, as a result, only a few machines were being guarded today.

The governor's office was being asked if it would be possible to transport all voting machines to a central place where the guarding task would be reduced.

But the sheriff said he understood it may be against the law to do so under present circumstances.

Meanwhile, Charles Eberling, the Democratic party member of the county's election commission, said it would take at least a week to recanvass the vote.

He said he and the Republican commissioner, Mrs. Marion Dorsey would have to stay at the courthouse all day today to receive records from election district clerks.

EBERLING SAID it then would take several more days for the two commissioners to travel to all 71 election districts for a recheck of voting machine figures.

The Republican ticket carried Rockland county, a GOP stronghold northwest of New York on

U. S. Sends Note To Reds on Atom

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States has sent a new message to Russia on peaceful uses of atomic energy which he hopes "will start a new phase in the U. S.-USSR negotiations."

At the same time the President announced to a news conference that Moorehead Patterson, New York businessman, had agreed to head U. S. negotiations looking to America's taking part in a proposed international atomic energy agency.

Patterson will serve under Secretary of State Dulles. Eisenhower said he will confer with Patterson tomorrow "to tell him about the great importance which I attach" to this agency.

Secretary of State Dulles handled the message to the Soviets, delivering it to Russian Ambassador Georgi Zarubin here.

Democrats Win In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Democratic party rode back to power in Pennsylvania today as 36-year-old George M. Leader won the governorship by nearly 250,000 votes to end 16 years of Republican rule.

The size of the Democratic triumph over Lloyd Wood, the Republican candidate and incumbent lieutenant governor, stunned political experts who had predicted a nip-and-tuck election battle with the odds, if any, favoring the GOP.

VICTORY CATAPULTED Leader, lanky York county chicken farmer, into the national political spotlight as chief executive of this politically crucial state. Six months ago when he was slated by the Democrats he was a virtually unknown first-term state senator.

Leader is Pennsylvania's youngest governor since 1882 when another Democrat, Robert E. Pattison, won election at age 32.

Sweeping into office with Leader, with smaller majorities, were the entire Democratic statewide slate; Roy E. Furman, of Waynesburg, for lieutenant governor; Miss Genevieve Blatt of Pittsburgh for secretary of internal affairs, and three incumbent State Superior Court judges. Miss Blatt is the first woman ever elected to statewide office in Pennsylvania.

THE DEMOCRATIC victory also included defeat of three incumbent Republican congress-

Ribicoff Defeats Lodge In Connecticut by 3,000

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3 (AP) — Connecticut's ticket splitting electorate replaced its Republican governor with a Democrat in a tight election yesterday, but left unchanged the state's congressional house lineup of five Republicans and one Democrat.

Complete unofficial returns gave the governorship to former U. S. Rep. Abraham A. Ribicoff by about 3,000 votes.

Ribicoff, 44-year-old lawyer and the first Jew ever to win the governorship, beat down the re-election bid of Gov. John Lodge in a contest that was in doubt almost until the last of nearly 940,000 votes had been counted.

The unofficial returns from the 169 towns gave Ribicoff 463,530 and Lodge 460,735.

Together with the five House seats, Republicans retained control of all state offices below the governor.

Reelected to the House were Reps. Thomas J. Dodd (first district), the sole Democrat; Horace Seely-Brown, Jr. (second), Albert W. Cretella (third), Albert P. Morano (fourth), and James T. Patterson (fifth), and Antoni N. Sadlak (at-large).

Minor party candidates for the governorship fared poorly.

Two Young Folk Hurt in Accident

Two city residents suffered possible fractures at 5 p. m. yesterday when a 1952 sedan skidded on Route 28 about two miles west of Kingston and struck a guard rail, it was reported by state police of the Kingston Station.

They were Joan Reis, 17, of 57 Fairmont avenue, with a possible fracture of the right arm, and Thomas Gahand, 17, of 109 Clinton avenue, with a possible fracture of the left ankle. Both were taken to Kingston Hospital.

Troopers John Ripa and Maurice Vaillant, who investigated, reported that the sedan was operated by Harvey W. Thompson, 18, of 625 Broadway.

GOP Wins Significant Victory in Farm States

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Despite a controversy over the flexible price support program, Republicans marked up significant election victories yesterday in politically important farm belt states.

Some successful GOP candidates differed with the administration but the overall results did not represent, in the view of observers here, a repudiation of the new farm policies pushed through Congress by President Eisenhower.

Nearly complete returns indicated that congressional and statehouse gains made by Democrats were confined largely to urban areas of the country.

The midwest results were viewed, too as a farm vote of confidence in Secretary of Agriculture Benson who spearheaded the administration drive for variable farm price guarantees to re? place war-born high rigid floors.

Counted out by his critics several times since he started plugging a program aimed at "taking the government out of agriculture," Benson's position appeared to be stronger than ever. Benson's home state, Utah sent two GOP House members back to Washington despite the late withdrawal of one candidate,

Race Is Closest In State History

Albany, Nov. (AP)—Late returns today cut to 9,160 Averell Harriman's lead over Sen. Irving M. Ives in their neck-and-neck race to succeed Thomas E. Dewey as governor of New York.

Rockland Says Job Impossible

New City, Nov. 3 (AP) — Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's order for guards to be placed over state voting machines led to confusion and difficulty in Rockland county today.

Sheriff S. Henry Mock said it was impossible to obtain enough qualified men to guard machines around the clock in the county's 71 election districts.

He figured it would take 210 men a day, working in three shifts, to do the job and said this number of men could not be obtained. Chiefs of police in various towns agreed with him.

MOCK SAID that, as a result, only a few machines were being guarded today.

The governor's office was being asked if it would be possible to transport all voting machines to a central place where the guarding task would be reduced.

But the sheriff said he understood it may be against the law to do so under present circumstances.

Meanwhile, Charles Eberling, the Democratic party member of the county's election commission, said it would take at least a week to recanvass the vote.

He said he and the Republican commissioner, Mrs. Marion Dorsey would have to stay at the courthouse all day today to receive records from election district clerks.

EBERLING SAID it then would take several more days for the two commissioners to travel to all 71 election districts for a recheck of voting machine figures.

The Republican ticket carried Rockland county, a GOP stronghold northwest of New York on

U. S. Sends Note To Reds on Atom

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the United States has sent a new message to Russia on peaceful uses of atomic energy which he hopes "will start a new phase in the U. S.-USSR negotiations."

At the same time the President announced to a news conference that Moorehead Patterson, New York businessman, had agreed to head U. S. negotiations looking to America's taking part in a proposed international atomic energy agency.

Patterson will serve under Secretary of State Dulles. Eisenhower said he will confer with Patterson tomorrow "to tell him about the great importance which I attach" to this agency.

Secretary of State Dulles handled the message to the Soviets, delivering it to Russian Ambassador Georgi Zarubin here.

IT IS A REPLY to a Soviet memorandum of Sept. 22 in which the Russians indicated they wanted to renew negotia-

Democrats Win In Pennsylvania

Philadelphia, Nov. 3 (AP)—The Democratic party rode back to power in Pennsylvania today as 36-year-old George M. Leader won the governorship by nearly 250,000 votes to end 16 years of Republican rule.

The size of the Democratic triumph over Lloyd Wood, the Republican candidate and incumbent lieutenant governor, stunned political experts who had predicted a nip-and-tuck election battle with the odds, if any, favoring the GOP.

VICTORY CATAPULTED Leader, lanky York county chicken farmer, into the national political spotlight as chief executive of this politically crucial state. Six months ago when he was slated by the Democrats he was a virtually unknown first-term state senator.

Leader is Pennsylvania's youngest governor since 1882 when another Democrat, Robert E. Pattison, won election at age 32.

Sweeping into office with Leader, with smaller majorities, were the entire Democratic statewide slate; Roy E. Furman, of Waynesburg, for lieutenant governor; Miss Genevieve Blatt of Pittsburgh for secretary of internal affairs, and three incumbent State Superior Court judges. Miss Blatt is the first woman ever elected to statewide office in Pennsylvania.

THE DEMOCRATIC victory also included defeat of three incumbent Republican congress-

Ribicoff Defeats Lodge In Connecticut by 3,000

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3 (AP) — Connecticut's ticket splitting electorate replaced its Republican governor with a Democrat in a tight election yesterday, but left unchanged the state's congressional house lineup of five Republicans and one Democrat.

Complete unofficial returns gave the governorship to former U. S. Rep. Abraham A. Ribicoff by about 3,000 votes.

Ribicoff, 44-year-old lawyer and the first Jew ever to win the governorship, beat down the re-election bid of Gov. John Lodge in a contest that was in doubt almost until the last of nearly 940,000 votes had been counted.

The unofficial returns from the 169 towns gave Ribicoff 463,530 and Lodge 460,735.

Together with the five House seats, Republicans retained control of all state offices below the governor.

Reelected to the House were Reps. Thomas J. Dodd (first district), the sole Democrat; Horace Seely-Brown, Jr. (second), Albert W. Cretella (third), Albert P. Morano (fourth), and James T. Patterson (fifth), and Antoni N. Sadlak (at-large).

Minor party candidates for the governorship fared poorly.

Two Young Folk Hurt in Accident

Two city residents suffered possible fractures at 5 p. m. yesterday when a 1952 sedan skidded on Route 28 about two miles west of Kingston and struck a guard rail, it was reported by state police of the Kingston Station.

They were Joan Reis, 17, of 57 Fairmont avenue, with a possible fracture of the right arm, and Thomas Gahand, 17, of 109 Clinton avenue, with a possible fracture of the left ankle. Both were taken to Kingston Hospital.

Troopers John Ripa and Maurice Vaillant, who investigated, reported that the sedan was operated by Harvey W. Thompson, 18, of 625 Broadway.

GOP Wins Significant Victory in Farm States

Washington, Nov. 3 (AP)—Despite a controversy over the flexible price support program, Republicans marked up significant election victories yesterday in politically important farm belt states.

Some successful GOP candidates differed with the administration but the overall results did not represent, in the view of observers here a repudiation of the new farm policies pushed through Congress by President Eisenhower.

Nearly complete returns indicated that congressional and statehouse gains made by Democrats were confined largely to urban areas of the country.

The midwest results were viewed, too as a farm vote of confidence in Secretary of Agriculture Benson who spearheaded the administration drive for variable farm price guarantees to replace war-born high rigid floors.

Counted out by his critics several times since he started plugging a program aimed at "taking the government out of agriculture," Benson's position appeared to be stronger than ever. Benson's home state, Utah sent two GOP House members back to Washington despite the late withdrawal of one candidate,

Split Prizes

Ponca City, Okla. (AP)—When the bank held a contest to guess the number of coins in a miniature glass house, 15 youngsters and four adults came up with the right guess — 5,005 coins. The bank decided the $25 prizes in the adult and children divisions would be too small split among the winners so it added additional $25 awards. A drawing was held with the winner getting $25 in each division and the losers splitting the other $25.

Dr. Herbert B. Johnson of Kingston was the guest speaker at the recent Port Ewen School Association meeting. He talked on Reading Problems in the Home and the School. A discussion followed his talk. At the next meeting, teachers and parents plan to continue the questions and answers which arose as a result of Dr. Johnson's interesting talk.

The school was attractively decorated for Halloween with mothers from the kindergarten acting as hostesses.

The parents were interested in the work of the children which was hung up in the different rooms. The record award was won by Room 2—Mrs. Cole teacher. There was some discussion of the possibility of changing the meeting night but no other night could be found that would be agreeable with everyone. Dr. Lester E. Wrong Fish

Alton, Ill. (AP)—Little Michael D. Bucher, 3, is the biggest fish his daddy ever caught. Michael was sitting close to his father in a boat so that he wouldn't get hurt. A big fish popped out of the water and daddy threw his line, but the hook caught in Michael's scalp. Following removal of the hook at St. Joseph's Hospital, Michael was reported making satisfactory recovery.

Why We Say--

The expression "dark horse" for an unfavored horse that wins a race, started in Tennessee. Sam Flynn had a dark colored horse named "Dusky Pete." The story goes he used to ride from town to town entering the horse in local races. When he first rode into a town, his horse appeared lame, but on the track he quickly snapped out of it and became a winner.

Split Prizes

Ponca City, Okla. (AP)—When the bank held a contest to guess the number of coins in a miniature glass house, 15 youngsters and four adults came up with the right guess — 5,005 coins. The bank decided the $25 prizes in the adult and children divisions would be too small split among the winners so it added additional $25 awards. A drawing was held with the winner getting $25 in each division and the losers splitting the other $25.

YOUTH—OUR RICHEST HERITAGE

Americans as a people like to "count their blessings" to take inventory from time to time of the riches that make this nation great. Often, however, while adding up the coal and wheat, automobiles and homes—the material wealth of the nation—we forget to take stock of the spirit that makes America the great nation that it is, the spirit that has been passed down from person to person since the nation began.

Sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Youth, during the week of October 31 to November 7, six million American young men and women will call our attention to our most important national treasure—the American spirit that is transfused from generation to generation. These young people will observe National CYO Week.

With the youthful talent of hitting the nail on the head, the young people adopted a theme they hope to impress on the nation: "Youth—America's Richest Heritage." In publicizing and discussing that theme during National CYO Week they hope to remind all Americans that the Nation's future depends on how well its youth will carry forward the spiritual strength that is America.

For one week the young people ask America to turn its eyes from the juvenile delinquency headlines, from sensational stories of narcotics, gangs and crimes, to the millions of young Americans living the normal, ambitious lives of good "junior grade" citizens. They want to reassure us that youth is prepared to take over the tremendous spiritual tasks that will keep America strong.

Finally, they want to point out that we need not fear delinquency and corruption among young people if they are provided with a firm moral and spiritual training by adults who wish to pass on to new generations the real values by which Americans have lived since the days of the Founding Fathers.

Youth, like the six million who observe National CYO Week with spiritual, social, athletic and cultural exercises, deserve to be heard. Such youth are indeed "America's Richest Heritage."

CAUSE FOR PRIDE

Amid all the commotion about juvenile delinquency, it should be noted that there still remains a large body of youth in which this nation can take pride. Too often they go unnoticed while attention is focused on the delinquent minority.

Representing the youths in whom this nation can safely place its trust for the future are the youngsters who recently won the Future Farmer of America awards for their achievements. The top award went to Burd Schantz, of Alburtis, Pa., who in seven years built up his investment in farming to about $30,000.

Young Schantz, after his father died, converted his family's 65-acre farm, which had been devoted to poultry, into a mechanized dairy business. He bought his first registered Holstein heifer calf in 1947 with money earned from raising chickens, and now has 22 cows in addition to 1,200 capons, as well as acreage devoted to corn, small grains and pasture.

BASEBALL PLAYS A PART

A vote of gratitude is due to Jimmy Foxx, one of the all-time baseball greats, for his leadership in using baseball to help meet the problem of juvenile delinquency. He has organized a group of baseball stars to travel into every part of the country to talk to boys' organizations about the game. As part of the program some fortunate youngster will be awarded a four-year college scholarship as the winner in an essay contest.

Those staging activities for boys sometimes experience difficulty in getting youngsters to participate. The very boys at whom the programs are aimed are likely to shun participation. The fact that a few baseball stars, men whose exploits on the diamond they have come to admire, will be speakers at meetings will bring in a lot of boys who might otherwise stay away.

Baseball is already playing a part in preventing delinquency and building good citizenship with programs like the American Legion Junior Baseball, the Little League and similar activities. Creating interest in constructive activities is a sensible way to lead youngsters away from destructive pursuits into doings much more interesting.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

CITIZEN AND BUREAUCRAT

As government grows in size and function, it requires an increasingly large staff. The managerial problems of a government employing between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 public servants is very different from the simplicities of Thomas Jefferson's concepts of Federal administration. A bureaucracy tends to jell into a self-protecting and self-serving class which sooner or later comes to regard itself as an elite.

Any human institution will include incompetent and wilful men and women whose errors can cause disasters. A government elite has the facilities to cover up errors and to make it difficult for the citizen and his representatives in Congress to know what is being done with his money on his behalf. A continuing bureaucracy can be more perilous than the worst spoils system from the standpoint of the citizen's interest.

The British recently dealt with a case of this sort which has come down by the name of the Crichel Down affair. This involved some farm land taken over for war services, transferred from one government agency to another, and then neither sold nor rented to the original owners, who wanted their own land back, but was rented to strangers who could have no particular claim to it.

The British Parliament went into the matter by appointing a Prime Minister's Committee which investigated thoroughly and found that the civil servants in the Ministry of Agriculture had acted badly. They had served not the citizen but a doctrinaire position. The report contained this passage which might be printed and placed before every American bureaucrat who has forgotten that he is a servant and not a master:

"In present times the interests of the private citizen are affected to a great extent by the actions of civil servants. It is the most necessary that the civil servant should bear constantly in mind that the citizen has a right to expect not only that his affairs will be dealt with effectively and expeditiously but also that his personal feelings no less than his rights as an individual will be sympathetically considered. We think that the admitted shortcomings in this respect are the main cause of such loss of public confidence as has resulted from this case."

Anyone who has had his affairs inspected by the income tax bureaucrats knows that it is cheaper not to fuss than to stand up for his judgment. Similarly, those who have to wait hours on a dock or at an airfield for a customs man to admit that the inspected person is honest, must realize that these men most often are really defending their jobs. If the inspectors find no smugglers, they are suspected by their boss of being in collusion with them to deprive the government of its lawful but not anways just due.

A foreigner, coming into this country, must assure our government that she is neither insane nor a prostitute. The questionnaire is embarrassing and seems somewhat unnecessary. In the first place, no prostitute would admit it and decent women are offended by being asked. As to insanity, who knows about me and thee, and I rather suspect thee.

For instance, who promoted Major Peress? Obviously, this was bureaucratic carelessness in the servicing of Peress's documents. These documents were passed from hand to hand, duly initialled and rubber-stamped but not read. When it was finally discovered that Peress had twice answered improperly but quite truthfully, the bureacracy determined to hush-up the entire matter by giving Peress an honorable discharge and throwing him out of the Army. But the Peress matter refused to die down and became a hot political issue, producing a split in the Republican Party of the widest dimensions. Still, the bureaucracy is strong enough to forbid anyone to answer the question, "Who promoted Major Peress?"

In Great Britain, they do it better. When the Crichel Down affair reached public magnitude, Sir Thomas Dugdale, Minister of Agriculture, a promising official, resigned. He is a gentleman who does not pass the buck.

NONTYPICAL CASE OF CANCER OF LUNG

Yesterday we spoke in general about the unfavorable outlook at present in so many cases of cancer of the lung. Today let us consider a case, operated on by Dr. F. H. Boyce, of Louisiana School of Medicine, whom we quoted yesterday, which is spoken of as being nontypical because there were so many favorable circumstances connected with it.

The patient, a 53-year-old man, had an attack of influenza at Christmas, 1952. The acute infection responded well to antibiotic therapy (such as penicillin) but he did not fully recover his strength and continued to feel weak and feverish and tired easily. He also developed a cough with clear sputum. On May 10, 1953, the sputum was blood-streaked. There was nothing unusual in the past history except that he had been a heavy cigarette smoker. His own doctor immediately referred him to an internist who found an increased density at the bottom of the right lower lobe of his lung. The following day a surgeon was consulted and operation took place within a couple of days. Recovery was uncomplicated and the man was able to return to his usual activities within six weeks. Examination of the growth which had been removed proved it to be cancer which had spread to only one of the lymph nodes which had also been removed.

1. Most patients are seen too late for any expectation of cure. This case falls into the group of early cases as a history of only five months' delay on the part of the patient and the doctor he first consults is, as cancer of the lung goes, highly favorable.

2. A great many patients with this disease are treated as symptoms arise, without cancer being suspected. Their symptoms are sometimes relieved but valuable time is lost. In this case, the patient was referred to an internist without further delay as soon as his sputum became blood-streaked.

3. The internist, who was of the type who is alert for cancer of the lung, as soon as he knew he was dealing with a change in the lung, hospitalized the patient, had an X-ray taken, which confirmed his findings and had requested consultation with a surgeon within 24 hours. No further time was lost in other tests.

4. When operation was proposed to the patient he accepted it at once. Unlike many patients with this disease he was in good general condition for operation.

5. Most patients having surgery prove to have disease too widespread to be cured but this man showed no extension of the cancer, or at least to only one lymph node which had also been removed.

Washington (NEA)—Analyzing the farm belt discontent that has been such a disturbing factor in this year's political campaign shows much of the farmers' uneasiness to be based more on fears for the future than on present actual hurt.

Such reduced income as farmers are receiving this year cannot accurately be blamed on political causes. The drop in farm income is due more to bad weather and the natural economic causes of over-supply and reduced demand than to any across-the-board curtailment of government farm aid programs.

The exception to this is dairy products. Here the Republican administration did arbitrarily cut price support levels from 90 to 75 per cent of parity. But this was done only after Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson had given the dairy industry leaders nearly a year to come up with an alternative plan, which they failed to do.

For the basic farm commodities, support prices have remained at 90 per cent of parity on this year's crops. The fact that average corn, cotton, wheat, rice and peanut prices have fallen below parity this year must therefore be blamed on other causes than anything done by the last Congress.

THIS SAME SITUATION will be largely true for the 1955 crops. On the three principal crops, it is now indicated that cotton will remain under 90 per cent of parity price support, corn may drop to 88 per cent and wheat to 82½ per cent.

Reports from Department of Agriculture field men indicate that these cuts are not considered serious by corn and wheat men. Even if such declines were considered serious, it is doubtful if the new Congress, meeting in January, could act fast enough to change the support levels before planting time on the 1955 crops.

Changes could be made by Congress on support levels for the 1956 crops. But these crops are not harvested until the latter half of the year. An appreciable gain to the farmer from higher price support levels might not reach his pocketbook to have much influence as a political factor in the 1956 elections.

It is therefore the uncertainty over what may happen to farm price supports in 1956, '57 and '58 which is at the root of present farm belt discontent.

THE FARM BILL PASSED by the last Congress provides for a gradual shift to a new parity formula. Parity is the ratio between the things the farmer has to buy and what he sells. A principal gripe of farmers has been that the prices of the things he buys—his farm costs—have been going up while the prices he gets for his crops have been going down.

To remedy this, the new parity formula will be based on average prices of the most recent ten years. The base period will thus change every year. The old parity formula was based on fixed 1910-14 price averages.

Congress provided, however, that this shift to the new parity formula and a change to a flexible, 75-to-90 per cent of parity for price supports on basic crops could be made no faster than 5 per cent a year.

Dropping from 90 to 75 per cent of parity price supports might therefore be accomplished in three years—or by 1958.

If the farm belt pressure next year is strong enough, Congress might set aside the new parity formula and this future shift to a flexible price support system by simple legislative action.

IF THIS DOES HAPPEN, it will leave the real farm issue to be fought out, probably in the 1956 presidential election campaign.

There is a fundamental difference in philosophy between the two major political parties on this issue.

The Republican theory is to put price support levels just high enough to let farmers avoid disaster in years of oversupply. The Democratic theory is to keep support levels high in the belief that this will maintain a prosperous agriculture.

One other facet to this coming farm policy fight is that neither party has yet come up with a satisfactory formula for supporting the prices of perishable commodities in any way that makes sense.

Before Jan. 3, Secretary Benson must report to Congress some new plan on how these dairy products, at least, may be handled.

Democrats Have Put Handicap on Party in 1956 Presidential Campaign

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 3 — The presidential campaign of 1956 begins this week—and it starts with a handicap imposed on the Democratic party by its own leaders which, before the next session of Congress is many weeks old, they will probably regret. The Republicans, if they are alert about it, will not fail to take advantage of what may prove to have been a big political blunder by their opponents.

Both Representative Rayburn of Texas and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the leaders of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives and the Senate, respectively, joined during the congressional campaign in a statement pledging that their party would, in the main, support the legislative program and foreign policy of President Eisenhower. Indeed, the Democrats, as a part of their campaign tactics, boasted that the Democrats had supported Mr. Eisenhower on the important roll-call votes of the last session of Congress more than did the members of his own party. Actually this argument didn't measure up on statistical examination, but it seemed a good way to keep those admirers of President Eisenhower who had been Democrats but who voted for him in 1952 from voting the Republican ticket in the congressional elections this year.

Now, however, the pledge remains a matter of record, and the President will be in a position to hold the Democratic party accountable for its fulfillment. Again and again, as Mr. Eisenhower seeks supporting votes in Congress, he can remind the Democrats of their campaign promise. If they attempt to wriggle out of it or if they disregard it, the opportunity will be there for the President to say about the Democratic party's behavior in the coming 84th Congress what Mr. Truman said about the Republicans in the 80th Congress—that the opposition members were more occupied with party politics than with giving support to measures designed to advance the nation's welfare.

The Democratic party's pledge to cooperate with the President was given on the theory that Mr. Eisenhower's popularity was very high with the voters and that the best way to prevent it from being an advantage to the Republicans was not to attack Mr. Eisenhower's leadership but to appear to be even a better insrument of support than the Republican party. This strategy, however, while expedient in the congressional campaign, puts the Democratic party on the spot in the next two years.

There are many measures on which the President is anxious to get action. One of them, for example, is the revision of the Taft-Hartley Law on labor-management relations. It was passed in the 80th Congress, when the Republicans were in control, and has been a political football ever since. The union bosses have centered their attack on a few alleged defects in the law. Some of the suggested revisions have been unpalatable to the conservative Democrats from the south but, when the Eisenhower Administration finally did get an amended bill before Congress, it was a coalition of northern Democrats and southern Democrats which prevented the Republicans from putting through any legislation at all. Whether the purpose was to prevent the Republicans from getting any credit with labor-union voters or whether the southern Democrats secretly aimed at preventing any change whatsoever in the Taft-Hartley Law, the fact remains that the legislation was buried.

Now comes another chance for the Eisenhower Administration to test the good faith of the Democrats. Will they pass an Eisenhower-backed measure to revise the Taft-Hartley Act? Or will they clutter up the bill with crippling amendments which would make a presidential veto imperative? In any event, if the latter contingency arises, Mr. Eisenhower would be able to make the claim that the Democratic Party had not kept faith with the country—that it had violated its pledge to support him.

This could be the beginning of a build-up for 1956 such as Mr. Truman carried on so successfully in 1948 when he repeatedly told the country that he could not function with a divided government and that he needed a Democratic Congress to support him.

The argument will hold good even if there are a few Republicans who also do not vote with the President on his program. For the Democratic leaders pledged their entire party to support the President and, while this allows for a few defections, it can be held to mean that the majority of the Democrats in Congress, in both Houses, are committed to support the Eisenhower program. Otherwise they will be offering their opponents a clear-cut issue for 1956 on the basis of a broken pledge. If the Republicans are politically alert, they will during the next two years never let the nation forget that pledge.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The policy of the New York Times in matters affected by communism has become a subject of controversy. Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher, a graduate of the textile industry, became a journalist of amusing, if not altogether valid, grandeur after he had married the daughter of Adolph Ochs, the publisher who founded such good repute as the paper once enjoyed. His son-in-law is a versatile fellow. He has plumped for both interpretive and strictly objective reporting.

The Times on Sunday, Oct. 3, published an obituary of Alice Prentice Barrows. The Times said she had been a "noted specialist in school building problems, who devoted 41 years to the cause of education." Her age was 77. Actually she devoted herself to Communist designs in public education.

This woman was as Red as a slit throat and was hostess to the historic and notorious dinner party in Washington in 1933 at which she and other Reds outlined their program of Communist revolution in which Roosevelt was to play the role which Kerensky had played in Russia. Dr. William A. Wirt, a genuine educator, then superintendent of schools in Gary, Ind., was one of the guests. He soon became the victim of a ferocious and merciless campaign of character-assassination.

But the New York Times, which can froth at the mouth at the enormity of Joe McCarthy's hostility to traitors and their patrons and protectors, did not think the persecution of Wirt was worthy of note in the obit of the hateful old harridan who was at the bottom of it.

A New York man who keeps track of the Times' inconsistencies wrote to Turner Catledge, managing editor, that the Barrows obit, though charitable to the deceased, "was not fair to the memory of Doctor Wirt." He reminded the Times that this woman had been the first witness before a select House committee organized for the sole purpose of destroying Wirt. The Times' obituary absolutely ignored the Wirt episode although it was by far the most important single occurrence in Miss Barrows' career.

The Times did report that in 1953 she refused to answer to the Senate subcommittee on internal security "whether she had ever been a Communist." The Congressional Record contains a challenge to this version. In an extension of remarks by Congressman Fred A. Busbey, of Chicago, a redoubtable Republican Red-hater, last April 12, Busbey said the Barrows woman was not asked merely whether she had ever been "a Communist." She was asked whether she had ever been "a member of the Communist party." She took the Fifth Amendment.

Moreover, the Times assuaged her conduct in this particular instance by stating that she had often heard an uncle declare that the highest level of liberty was the liberty of the meanest citizen. Therefore, this uncle is alleged to have concluded that the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence were the greatest "expressions of human freedom." And Miss Barrows, after her death, was made to rely on a high-flown but meaningless recourse to documents which she had worked many years to destroy.

Ralph Garst, assistant managing editor of the Times, replied to the reader that he was "a little puzzled" by the criticism of the obit, because it contained no mention whatever of Doctor Wirt. He said it was "completely adequate as to Miss Barrows' career and should not appear unfair to the memory of anyone else."

On the contrary, the obit was unfair, first of all to the public in failing to present appropriate evidence that this woman was not only at best a fellow-traveler of the Red Treason and let the readers draw their own conclusions. And it was unfair to Wirt's memory because he died under a cloud of disrepute which she and others equally hateful created not only to destroy him but to warn others against the risk of character-assassination inherent in any attack on the treason of the New Deal.

Alice Barrows had been Wirt's private secretary in the New York school system about 1914. He trusted her on the basis of that old confidential association when he accepted an invitation to dine at her home. After that party Wirt wrote a memorandum for limited circulation in Washington which presently came to the attention of a New Deal committee of Congress. Thereupon, a special House committee of three Democrats and two Republicans was chosen to hound Wirt, destroy his character and drive him into oblivion.

John O'Connor, a New York Democrat who later was "purged" by Roosevelt for opposing the plan to pack the federal courts with pro-Communist judges, took counsel of his conscience in 1940 and wrote a total, abject confession which he began by saying, "I desire to relieve my conscience of a matter which has long burdened it."

He then admitted that "the committee immediately met and discussed rules as how to prevent the Republican minority from coverting the hearings into an investigation of the truth of the charges."

He wrote: "The motion which I, personally, presented limited the hearings to an examination of Wirt to bring out the names and exact statements of his informants. Over the protests of

YOUTH—OUR RICHEST HERITAGE

Americans as a people like to "count their blessings" to take inventory from time to time of the riches that make this nation great. Often, however, while adding up the coal and wheat, automobiles and homes—the material wealth of the nation—we forget to take stock of the spirit that makes America the great nation that it is, the spirit that has been passed down from person to person since the nation began.

Sponsored by the National Council of Catholic Youth, during the week of October 31 to November 7, six million American young men and women will call our attention to our most important national treasure—the American spirit that is transfused from generation to generation. These young people will observe National CYO Week.

With the youthful talent of hitting the nail on the head, the young people adopted a theme they hope to impress on the nation: "Youth—America's Richest Heritage." In publicizing and discussing that theme during National CYO Week they hope to remind all Americans that the Nation's future depends on how well its youth will carry forward the spiritual strength that is America.

For one week the young people ask America to turn its eyes from the juvenile delinquency headlines, from sensational stories of narcotics, gangs and crimes, to the millions of young Americans living the normal, ambitious lives of good "junior grade" citizens. They want to reassure us that youth is prepared to take over the tremendous spiritual tasks that will keep America strong.

Finally, they want to point out that we need not fear delinquency and corruption among young people if they are provided with a firm moral and spiritual training by adults who wish to pass on to new generations the real values by which Americans have lived since the days of the Founding Fathers.

Youth, like the six million who observe National CYO Week with spiritual, social, athletic and cultural exercises, deserve to be heard. Such youth are indeed "America's Richest Heritage."

CAUSE FOR PRIDE

Amid all the commotion about juvenile delinquency, it should be noted that there still remains a large body of youth in which this nation can take pride. Too often they go unnoticed while attention is focused on the delinquent minority.

Representing the youths in whom this nation can safely place its trust for the future are the youngsters who recently won the Future Farmer of America awards for their achievements. The top award went to Burd Schantz, of Alburtis, Pa., who in seven years built up his investment in farming to about $30,000.

Young Schantz, after his father died, converted his family's 65-acre farm, which had been devoted to poultry, into a mechanized dairy business. He bought his first registered Holstein heifer calf in 1947 with money earned from raising chickens, and now has 22 cows in addition to 1,200 capons, as well as acreage devoted to corn, small grains and pasture.

BASEBALL PLAYS A PART

A vote of gratitude is due to Jimmy Foxx, one of the all-time baseball greats, for his leadership in using baseball to help meet the problem of juvenile delinquency. He has organized a group of baseball stars to travel into every part of the country to talk to boys' organizations about the game. As part of the program some fortunate youngster will be awarded a four-year college scholarship as the winner in an essay contest.

Those staging activities for boys sometimes experience difficulty in getting youngsters to participate. The very boys at whom the programs are aimed are likely to shun participation. The fact that a few baseball stars, men whose exploits on the diamond they have come to admire, will be speakers at meetings will bring in a lot of boys who might otherwise stay away.

Baseball is already playing a part in preventing delinquency and building good citizenship with programs like the American Legion Junior Baseball, the Little League and similar activities. Creating interest in constructive activities is a sensible way to lead youngsters away from destructive pursuits into doings much more interesting.

CITIZEN AND BUREAUCRAT

As government grows in size and function, it requires an increasingly large staff. The managerial problems of a government employing between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 public servants is very different from the simplicities of Thomas Jefferson's concepts of Federal administration. A bureaucracy tends to jell into a self-protecting and self-serving class which sooner or later comes to regard itself as an elite.

Any human institution will include incompetent and wilful men and women whose errors can cause disasters. A government elite has the facilities to cover up errors and to make it difficult for the citizen and his representatives in Congress to know what is being done with his money on his behalf. A continuing bureaucracy can be more perilous than the worst spoils system from the standpoint of the citizen's interest.

The British recently dealt with a case of this sort which has come down by the name of the Crichel Down affair. This involved some farm land taken over for war services, transferred from one government agency to another, and then neither sold nor rented to the original owners, who wanted their own land back, but was rented to strangers who could have no particular claim to it.

The British Parliament went into the matter by appointing a Prime Minister's Committee which investigated thoroughly and found that the civil servants in the Ministry of Agriculture had acted badly. They had served not the citizen but a doctrinaire position. The report contained this passage which might be printed and placed before every American bureaucrat who has forgotten that he is a servant and not a master:

"In present times the interests of the private citizen are affected to a great extent by the actions of civil servants. It is the most necessary that the civil servant should bear constantly in mind that the citizen has a right to expect not only that his affairs will be dealt with effectively and expeditiously but also that his personal feelings no less than his rights as an individual will be sympathetically considered. We think that the admitted shortcomings in this respect are the main cause of such loss of public confidence as has resulted from this case."

Anyone who has had his affairs inspected by the income tax bureaucrats knows that it is cheaper not to fuss than to stand up for his judgment. Similarly, those who have to wait hours on a dock or at an airfield for a customs man to admit that the inspected person is honest, must realize that these men most often are really defending their jobs. If the inspectors find no smugglers, they are suspected by their boss of being in collusion with them to deprive the government of its lawful but not anways just due.

A foreigner, coming into this country, must assure our government that she is neither insane nor a prostitute. The questionnaire is embarrassing and seems somewhat unnecessary. In the first place, no prostitute would admit it and decent women are offended by being asked. As to insanity, who knows about me and thee, and I rather suspect thee.

For instance, who promoted Major Peress? Obviously, this was bureaucratic carelessness in the servicing of Peress's documents. These documents were passed from hand to hand, duly initialled and rubber-stamped but not read. When it was finally discovered that Peress had twice answered improperly but quite truthfully, the bureacracy determined to hush-up the entire matter by giving Peress an honorable discharge and throwing him out of the Army. But the Peress matter refused to die down and became a hot political issue, producing a split in the Republican Party of the widest dimensions. Still, the bureaucracy is strong enough to forbid anyone to answer the question, "Who promoted Major Peress?"

In Great Britain, they do it better. When the Crichel Down affair reached public magnitude, Sir Thomas Dugdale, Minister of Agriculture, a promising official, resigned. He is a gentleman who does not pass the buck.

NONTYPICAL CASE OF CANCER OF LUNG

Yesterday we spoke in general about the unfavorable outlook at present in so many cases of cancer of the lung. Today let us consider a case, operated on by Dr. F. H. No further time was lost in other tests.

4. When operation was proposed to the patient he accepted it at once. Unlike many patients with this disease he was in good general condition for operation.

5. Most patients having surgery prove to have disease too widespread to be cured but this man showed no extension of the cancer, or at least to only one lymph node which had also been removed.

A principal gripe of farmers has been that the prices of the things he buys—his farm costs—have been going up while the prices he gets for his crops have been going down.

To remedy this, the new parity formula will be based on average prices of the most recent ten years. The base period will thus change every year. The old parity formula was based on fixed 1910-14 price averages.

Congress provided, however, that this shift to the new parity formula and a change to a flexible, 75-to-90 per cent of parity for price supports on basic crops could be made no faster than 5 per cent a year.

Dropping from 90 to 75 per cent of parity price supports might therefore be accomplished in three years—or by 1958.

If the farm belt pressure next year is strong enough, Congress might set aside the new parity formula and this future shift to a flexible price support system by simple legislative action.

IF THIS DOES HAPPEN, it will leave the real farm issue to be fought out, probably in the 1956 presidential election campaign.

There is a fundamental difference in philosophy between the two major political parties on this issue.

The Republican theory is to put price support levels just high enough to let farmers avoid disaster in years of oversupply. The Democratic theory is to keep support levels high in the belief that this will maintain a prosperous agriculture.

One other facet to this coming farm policy fight is that neither party has yet come up with a satisfactory formula for supporting the prices of perishable commodities in any way that makes sense.

Democrats Have Put Handicap on Party in 1956 Presidential Campaign

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Nov. 3 — The presidential campaign of 1956 begins this week—and it starts with a handicap imposed on the Democratic party by its own leaders which, before the next session of Congress is many weeks old, they will probably regret. The Republicans, if they are alert about it, will not fail to take advantage of what may prove to have been a big political blunder by their opponents.

Both Representative Rayburn of Texas and Senator Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the leaders of the Democratic party in the House of Representatives and the Senate, respectively, joined during the congressional campaign in a statement pledging that their party would, in the main, support the legislative program and foreign policy of President Eisenhower. Indeed, the Democrats, as a part of their campaign tactics, boasted that the Democrats had supported Mr. Eisenhower on the important roll-call votes of the last session of Congress more than did the members of his own party. Actually this argument didn't measure up on statistical examination, but it seemed a good way to keep those admirers of President Eisenhower who had been Democrats but who voted for him in 1952 from voting the Republican ticket in the congressional elections this year.

Now, however, the pledge remains a matter of record, and the President will be in a position to hold the Democratic party accountable for its fulfillment. Again and again, as Mr. Eisenhower seeks supporting votes in Congress, he can remind the Democrats of their campaign promise. If they attempt to wriggle out of it or if they disregard it, the opportunity will be there for the President to say about the Democratic party's behavior in the coming 84th Congress what Mr. Truman said about the Republicans in the 80th Congress—that the opposition members were more occupied with party politics than with giving support to measures designed to advance the nation's welfare.

The Democratic party's pledge to cooperate with the President was given on the theory that Mr. Eisenhower's popularity was very high with the voters and that the best way to prevent it from being an advantage to the Republicans was not to attack Mr. Eisenhower's leadership but to appear to be even a better instrument of support than the Republican party. This strategy, however, while expedient in the congressional campaign, puts the Democratic party on the spot in the next two years.

There are many measures on which the President is anxious to get action. One of them, for example, is the revision of the Taft-Hartley Law on labor-management relations. It was passed in the 80th Congress, when the Republicans were in control, and has been a political football ever since. The union bosses have centered their attack on a few alleged defects in the law. Some of the suggested revisions have been unpalatable to the conservative Democrats from the south but, when the Eisenhower Administration finally did get an amended bill before Congress, it was a coalition of northern Democrats and southern Democrats which prevented the Republicans from putting through any legislation at all. Whether the purpose was to prevent the Republicans from getting any credit with labor-union voters or whether the southern Democrats secretly aimed at preventing any change whatsoever in the Taft-Hartley Law, the fact remains that the legislation was buried.

Now comes another chance for the Eisenhower Administration to test the good faith of the Democrats. Will they pass an Eisenhower-backed measure to revise the Taft-Hartley Act? Or will they clutter up the bill with crippling amendments which would make a presidential veto imperative? In any event, if the latter contingency arises, Mr. Eisenhower would be able to make the claim that the Democratic Party had not kept faith with the country—that it had violated its pledge to support him.

This could be the beginning of a build-up for 1956 such as Mr. Truman carried on so successfully in 1948 when he repeatedly told the country that he could not function with a divided government and that he needed a Democratic Congress to support him.

The argument will hold good even if there are a few Republicans who also do not vote with the President on his program. For the Democratic leaders pledged their entire party to support the President and, while this allows for a few defections, it can be held to mean that the majority of the Democrats in Congress, in both Houses, are committed to support the Eisenhower program. Otherwise they will be offering their opponents a clear-cut issue for 1956 on the basis of a broken pledge. If the Republicans are politically alert, they will during the next two years never let the nation forget that pledge.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

The policy of the New York Times in matters affected by communism has become a subject of controversy. Arthur Hays Sulzberger, the publisher, a graduate of the textile industry, became a journalist of amusing, if not altogether valid, grandeur after he had married the daughter of Adolph Ochs, the publisher who founded such good repute as the paper once enjoyed. His son-in-law is a versatile fellow. He has plumped for both interpretive and strictly objective reporting.

The Times on Sunday, Oct. 3, published an obituary of Alice Prentice Barrows. The Times said she had been a "noted specialist in school building problems, who devoted 41 years to the cause of education." Her age was 77. Actually she devoted herself to Communist designs in public education.

This woman was as Red as a slit throat and was hostess to the historic and notorious dinner party in Washington in 1933 at which she and other Reds outlined their program of Communist revolution in which Roosevelt was to play the role which Kerensky had played in Russia. Dr. William A. Wirt, a genuine educator, then superintendent of schools in Gary, Ind., was one of the guests. He soon became the victim of a ferocious and merciless campaign of character-assassination.

But the New York Times, which can froth at the mouth at the enormity of Joe McCarthy's hostility to traitors and their patrons and protectors, did not think the persecution of Wirt was worthy of note in the obit of the hateful old harridan who was at the bottom of it.

A New York man who keeps track of the Times' inconsistencies wrote to Turner Catledge, managing editor, that the Barrows obit, though charitable to the deceased, "was not fair to the memory of Doctor Wirt." He reminded the Times that this woman had been the first witness before a select House committee organized for the sole purpose of destroying Wirt. The Times' obituary absolutely ignored the Wirt episode although it was by far the most important single occurrence in Miss Barrows' career.

The Times did report that in 1953 she refused to answer to the Senate subcommittee on internal security "whether she had ever been a Communist." The Congressional Record contains a challenge to this version. In an extension of remarks by Congressman Fred A. Busbey, of Chicago, a redoubtable Republican Red-hater, last April 12, Busbey said the Barrows woman was not asked merely whether she had ever been "a Communist." She was asked whether she had ever been "a member of the Communist party." She took the Fifth Amendment.

Moreover, the Times assuaged her conduct in this particular instance by stating that she had often heard an uncle declare that the highest level of liberty was the liberty of the meanest citizen. Therefore, this uncle is alleged to have concluded that the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence were the greatest "expressions of human freedom." And Miss Barrows, after her death, was made to rely on a high-flown but meaningless recourse to documents which she had worked many years to destroy.

Ralph Garst, assistant managing editor of the Times, replied to the reader that he was "a little puzzled" by the criticism of the obit, because it contained no mention whatever of Doctor Wirt. He said it was "completely adequate as to Miss Barrows' career and should not appear unfair to the memory of anyone else."

On the contrary, the obit was unfair, first of all to the public in failing to present appropriate evidence that this woman was not only at best a fellow-traveler of the Red Treason and let the readers draw their own conclusions. And it was unfair to Wirt's memory because he died under a cloud of disrepute which she and others equally hateful created not only to destroy him but to warn others against the risk of character-assassination inherent in any attack on the treason of the New Deal.

Alice Barrows had been Wirt's private secretary in the New York school system about 1914. He trusted her on the basis of that old confidential association when he accepted an invitation to dine at her home. After that party Wirt wrote a memorandum for limited circulation in Washington which presently came to the attention of a New Deal committee of Congress. Thereupon, a special House committee of three Democrats and two Republicans was chosen to hound Wirt, destroy his character and drive him into oblivion.

John O'Connor, a New York Democrat who later was "purged" by Roosevelt for opposing the plan to pack the federal courts with pro-Communist judges, took counsel of his conscience in 1940 and wrote a total, abject confession which he began by saying, "I desire to relieve my conscience of a matter which has long burdened it."

He then admitted that "the committee immediately met and discussed rules as how to prevent the Republican minority from coverting the hearings into an investigation of the truth of the charges."

He wrote: "The motion which I, personally, presented limited the hearings to an examination of Wirt to bring out the names and exact statements of his informants. Over the protests of

Record Turkey Crop Is Ready for Thanksgiving

FOR NEW LOOK Thanksgiving pleasure—roasted "tucked" turkey with spiced apples.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Good news for the American Thanksgiving menu—we have a record-large crop of turkeys. The trend in both large and small turkeys, according to S. J. Marsden of the United States Department of Agriculture, seems to be toward white birds. He adds that the ready-to-cook bird, processed by experts in sanitary plants, promises to supplant in popularity the "dressed" bird which has to be drawn and requires lots of preparation at home before it is ready for the oven.

There's also a new look to turkeys this year. They are coming to market in a convenient style which eliminates trussing and sewing after stuffing.

Both the small grown, Beltsville-style turkeys for the small family and the large-size regular hen and tom turkeys are frozen "tucked."

As purchased, the legs are pulled into and held by an opening cut low below the breast bone. After thawing the turkey according to directions on the wrapper, pull the legs back from the slit and remove the parchment-wrapped giblets. Stuff the turkey through the ready-cut opening, tuck the legs back into the original position and the bird is ready for the oven.

Most experts now recommend that the stuffed bird be brushed with melted fat and covered lightly with aluminmum foil or cheese cloth and placed on a rack in a roasting pan. Roast without additional covering in a slow (325 degrees F.) oven according to the weight and type of bird. Complete instructions are carried on the clear wrapper in which the bird is purchased.

Scientific tests also show that basting the birds does not increase juciness and the hot fat may have a tendency to toughen the skin, so let the bird roast unwatched and unbasted until a meat thermometer inserted in the thigh muscle next to the body registers 190 degrees F. and the drumstick can be moved up and down easily. Remove from the oven about 30 minutes before carving time to allow the juices to "set."

Some of the children feel secure enough in the ability to write to attempt writing their spelling words. All of the penmanship drills have been taken from the new writing books making this one of our most enjoyable classes during the day. Sincere interest and appreciation of the lovely new library books, which arrived last week, is manifested by all members of the third grade class. Minasian Market Celebrates 25th Year in Business

Minasian's Market will celebrate its 25th anniversary in the grocery business on North Front street this week.

A special sale, prizes and samples will be offered beginning Thursday morning in observance of the event, according to Edward and Lauren Minasian, proprietors.

Mr. Peanut Man, from the Planter's Peanut Company, will make special appearances in the market during the celebration.

THE MINASIAN BROTHERS open a grocery store on North Front street in 1929. After doing business in several locations, all on that street, they expanded to a supermarket type of store and built their present quarters at 86 North Front street about six years ago.

More recently, the interior of the store was remodeled to make room for its meat department, and a building on Green street was purchased to increase the size of the parking lot, which now has an entrance on North Front street and an exit on Green street.

Although the brothers date the establishment of the store on North Front street to 25 years ago, the Minasian family actually was engaged in the grocery business prior to that year, as their father conducted a small store on Gage street for many years.

Topics Are Told For 50th Annual TB Press Project

"What was it like 50 years ago, Grandpa?" Those of us who were alive and kicking back in 1904 will have to be ready to answer that question as students of Ulster county elementary, junior and senior high schools go to work on the Golden Anniversary School Press Project sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Ulster County TB and Health Association.

Subjects for the project announced today by Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, president of the TB Association, are Fifty Years of Tuberculosis Control and This Is Tuberculosis. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the founding of the nationwide voluntary movement against tuberculosis, he said. School publications taking part in the project will publish news and feature stories, editorials, and art work on either or both of the assigned subjects.

"WE HOPE the student reporters and editors will do some real digging into the past and present of TB control in Ulster county. The association stands ready to help them with all the material at our command," Dr. Holcomb said. "This is a real opportunity for our young people to learn about the progress that has been made and about the tasks still ahead in making this a good place to live."

Information about the tuberculosis prevention and health program in the county will be given to the students by Joseph Merola, Health Education Assistant in the Tuberculosis office.

Last year the Cherry Tree, published by students of the George Washington School, received a national award certificate.

This year the Christmas Seals Committee at 74 John street, will make a special local award to the winning school paper.

Record Turkey Crop Is Ready for Thanksgiving

FOR NEW LOOK Thanksgiving pleasure—roasted "tucked" turkey with spiced apples.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

Good news for the American Thanksgiving menu—we have a record-large crop of turkeys. The trend in both large and small turkeys, according to S. J. Marsden of the United States Department of Agriculture, seems to be toward white birds. He adds that the ready-to-cook bird, processed by experts in sanitary plants, promises to supplant in popularity the "dressed" bird which has to be drawn and requires lots of preparation at home before it is ready for the oven.

There's also a new look to turkeys this year. They are coming to market in a convenient style which eliminates trussing and sewing after stuffing.

Both the small grown, Beltsville-style turkeys for the small family and the large-size regular hen and tom turkeys are frozen "tucked."

As purchased, the legs are pulled into and held by an opening cut low below the breast bone. After thawing the turkey according to directions on the wrapper, pull the legs back from the slit and remove the parchment-wrapped giblets. Stuff the turkey through the ready-cut opening, tuck the legs back into the original position and the bird is ready for the oven.

Most experts now recommend that the stuffed bird be brushed with melted fat and covered lightly with aluminmum foil or cheese cloth and placed on a rack in a roasting pan. Roast without additional covering in a slow (325 degrees F.) oven according to the weight and type of bird. Complete instructions are carried on the clear wrapper in which the bird is purchased.

Scientific tests also show that basting the birds does not increase juciness and the hot fat may have a tendency to toughen the skin, so let the bird roast unwatched and unbasted until a meat thermometer inserted in the thigh muscle next to the body registers 190 degrees F. and the drumstick can be moved up and down easily. Remove from the oven about 30 minutes before carving time to allow the juices to "set."

School News

MARBLETOWN CENTRAL—Representing the school at the 22nd annual convention of the New York State School Boards Association at Syracuse were Herbert Siemer, Ernst Schwarz, board members, and Merton Blanchard, principal. The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Louis A. Wilson, Commissioner of Education. Of special interest was the Question Box conducted by Dr Charles A. Brind, Jr., counsel to the State Education Department, and also the displays of more than 100 exhibitors showing all types of school supplies and the latest in school equipment.

The kindergarten, first and second grades staged a Halloween costume parade Friday afternoon which was reviewed and judged by the entire student body. Winners were: Kindergarten—Virginia Davenport, prettiest; James Hoffman, scariest; Larry Abbaleo, original. First grade (M)—Leslie Paglioroni, prettiest; John Markle, scariest; Cynthia Russak, original. First grade (E)—Elizabeth Derringer, prettiest; Warren Davis, scariest; Eric Johnson, original. Second grade (P)—Karen Evans, prettiest; Kenneth Christiana, scariest; Willow Wright, original. Second grade (H)—Judy Lyke, prettiest; Matthew Spireng, scariest, and Ann Emmerling, original.

THIRD GRADE PUPILS have enjoyed an Indian unit. Two Indian arrowheads, which were found in a garden, were brought to the classroom. Discussion soon led to interest in the Rondout Valley Indians, the Esopus tribe. The children made tents, canoes and Indian figures for the bulletin board. Gradually, the third grade is acquiring skill in writing. The transition from manuscript printing is slow, but successful. Some of the children feel secure enough in the ability to write to attempt writing their spelling words. All of the penmanship drills have been taken from the new writing books making this one of our most enjoyable classes during the day. Sincere interest and appreciation of the lovely new library books, which arrived last week, is manifested by all members of the third grade class. These books were selected from some of the latest children's books now in print. Two of the books, The Big Snow by Elmer and Berta Hader, and The Biggest Bear by Lynde Ward, are Caldecott Award winners of 1952 and 1954.

Bonillas Honored

Tucson, Ariz. (AP)—A new elementary school has been named in honor of Ignacio Bonillas, son of a Mexican blacksmith, who rose from bootblack to Mexican ambassador to the United States. Bonillas was born in 1858, graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, served as governor of Magdalena district in Mexico and mayor of Nogales, Sonora, Mexico. He was Mexican ambassador to the United States from 1917 to 1920 and was defeated for president of Mexico by Gen. Alvaro Obregon in 1920. He died in 1944.

Simultaneous flash, synchronized with camera shutters atop specially built 154-foot tower, marked curve's centennial and 75th anniversary of incandescent lamp.

Minasian Market Celebrates 25th Year in Business

Minasian's Market will celebrate its 25th anniversary in the grocery business on North Front street this week.

A special sale, prizes and samples will be offered beginning Thursday morning in observance of the event, according to Edward and Lauren Minasian, proprietors.

Mr. Peanut Man, from the Planter's Peanut Company, will make special appearances in the market during the celebration.

THE MINASIAN BROTHERS open a grocery store on North Front street in 1929. After doing business in several locations, all on that street, they expanded to a supermarket type of store and built their present quarters at 86 North Front street about six years ago.

More recently, the interior of the store was remodeled to make room for its meat department, and a building on Green street was purchased to increase the size of the parking lot, which now has an entrance on North Front street and an exit on Green street.

Although the brothers date the establishment of the store on North Front street to 25 years ago, the Minasian family actually was engaged in the grocery business prior to that year, as their father conducted a small store on Gage street for many years.

Cramer First For Florida

Tallahassee, Fla., Nov. 3 (AP)—William C. Cramer, St. Petersburg attorney, will be the first Florida Republican sent to Congress since Reconstruction days.

The 32-year-old Harvard law school graduate defeated Rep. Courtney Campbell of Clearwater in a tight race in Florida's First District yesterday.

With 215 of 216 precincts reported, Cramer had 51,013 votes to 49,967 for Campbell, who was seeking his second term. Campbell defeated Cramer for the office two years ago by 1,800 votes.

Topics Are Told For 50th Annual TB Press Project

"What was it like 50 years ago, Grandpa?" Those of us who were alive and kicking back in 1904 will have to be ready to answer that question as students of Ulster county elementary, junior and senior high schools go to work on the Golden Anniversary School Press Project sponsored by the National Tuberculosis Association, the Columbia Scholastic Press Association and the Ulster County TB and Health Association.

Subjects for the project announced today by Dr. Frederic W. Holcomb, president of the TB Association, are Fifty Years of Tuberculosis Control and This Is Tuberculosis. This year marks the 50th anniversary of the founding of the nationwide voluntary movement against tuberculosis he said. School publications taking part in the project will publish news and feature stories, editorials, and art work on either or both of the assigned subjects.

"WE HOPE the student reporters and editors will do some real digging into the past and present of TB control in Ulster county. The association stands ready to help them with all the material at our command," Dr. Holcomb said. "This is a real opportunity for our young people to learn about the progress that has been made and about the tasks still ahead in making this a good place to live."

Information about the tuberculosis prevention and health program in the county will be given to the students by Joseph Merola, Health Education Assistant in the Tuberculosis office.

Last year the Cherry Tree, published by students of the George Washington School, received a national award certificate.

This year the Christmas Seals Committee at 74 John street, will make a special local award to the winning school paper.

the Republicans any examination of other persons was excluded. I took a leading part as prosecutor and inquisitor. I was quite severe, going so far as to oppose the appearance of the late distinguished ex-Senator James A. Reed as Wirt's counsel. This courtesy had sometimes been extended to witnesses. Wirt, however, was not allowed to have his counsel examine witnesses nor was he called in rebuttal after they had staged their well-staged denials. I say 'well-staged' because it was known that six of them had met and rehearsed their denials. The pack got the smell of blood and a great job was done."

The Barrows woman was a pioneer Red in the New Deal and there is congressional data showing that she belonged to many notorious Communist fronts. She never made the slightest gesture of compassion toward the victim of her perfidy.

These further facts will balance the obit printed by the New York Times. In the minds of some they may leave some question still whether the Times upheld its own motto: "All the news that's fit to print."

Jaycees to Give Free Safety Tape To Bicycle Riders

The Kingston High School field, directly in the rear of the high school, will be the site for the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce Lite A Bike project Saturday between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock.

Rim Matthews, chairman of the local Jaycee project, announced today that Jaycees will apply Scotchlite Safety Tape gratis to the bicycles of all Kingston area boys and girls who bring their vehicles to the high school field.

The use of Scotchlite Safety Tape has been endorsed by local, state, and national safety experts as an important means of cutting down the number of night accidents. A reflective tape. Scotchlite is chemically treated to glow in the dark, and is "75 per cent more clearly visible than regular bicycle reflectors and more sharply visible than bicycle headlights."

"This Jaycee project is offered as a public service, and there is absolutely no charge for either the supplying or the application of the tape," Matthews said.

Other Jaycees working on the project are Chester Diffley, Peter Kolenko, Donald Lawson and Ernie Rowe. Marvin Millens is in charge of publicity.

Mrs. E. Rhinehardt of Hasbrouck avenue has brought me some more interesting World newspapers. One of Sunday, Jan. 28, 1894 printed in New York gives a feature story of "Hetty Green and her mystery . . . the true story of the richest woman in America who conceals her residence and hides her identity. She lives in a rear hall bedroom at number 89 Pierrepont street, Brooklyn, and pays $7 a week. Eats her meals in the kitchen. Dressed like a beggar, she slinks through crowds, unnoticed, to the Chemical Bank to cut coupons. Her husband is a club man. Her daughter lives on Fifth avenue while she does her own washing in her dingy room." Hetty Green's full story could never be covered in even a feature article and hardly in a column. Many thousands of words have been written about this clever woman whose private fortune was estimated at the time at $60,000,000 when she occupied a rear hall bedroom on the third floor of Mrs. A. E. Bonta's boardinghouse. It seems the more she dreaded publicity the more she received, and was constantly haunted by begging letters for money, newspaper men for a story, tax collectors, etc.

It is said she had no home of her own and few knew at the time that she had been married to a Edward H. Green who spent his time at the Union Club on 5th avenue and 20th street. They said he was a tall man and a one time wealthy but lost his fortune in speculations and Mrs. Green made him a certain allowance. It is also said, that when she married there was an ante-nuptial agreement by the terms of which Mr. Green and Mrs. Green were never to have any interest in one another's estates.

In 1894 her son, Edward H. R. Green, was 26 years old and made his home in Chicago. Her daughter, Miss Sylvia Howland Green, was 28 years old who had a fortune in her own right of $5,000,000 besides being a prospective sharer, together with her brother of her mother's vast holdings. The daughter at the time lived with Miss Annie Leary at 90 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Green herself at the time was 58 years old. She was the daughter of Edward Mott Robinson, a New England whaling merchant. Mrs. Bonta, Mrs. Green's landlady and Mr. Robinson were second cousins. At the time this was written Mrs. Green was at the boardinghouse only a month, it seems she came and left the place as she pleased which never surprised Mrs. Bonta. "Mrs. Green keeps her only window shut and the outside blinds tightly closed besides having it tied fast against burglars with a piece of clothesline. She washes in her room and hangs her things to dry over a chair. She does not own a trunk so when she vacates she wraps her things in newspapers. She makes her own bed and when she returns in the evening to her room she finds two clean towels and a pail of fresh water outside her door. She does not eat with the other boarders but in the kitchen by herself." This one morning when the World reporter was there she had steak and sausage for breakfast and some vegetables. She always waited on herself to save the landlady the time. She also believed in eating everything on one plate and using only one knife, fork and spoon. She bought her clothes in a second hand shop. She was always hunting for bargains and did find some extraordinary ones. That is the lady who was one of the largest stockholders of the Chemical Bank where she had her office. Ogdensburg Goes To Democrat

Ogdensburg, Nov. 3 (AP)—For the first time in 22 years, this St. Lawrence river city has gone into the victory column of a Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Unofficial returns show Averell Harriman polled 2,383 votes here yesterday, compared with 2,246 for for Sen. Irving M. Ives, his Republican opponent.

The late Franklin D. Roosevelt was the last Democratic gubernatorial candidate to carry the city. In 1950, Gov. Dewey won over the Democrats' Walter Lynch by 2,855 to 1,991 votes.

Ogdensburg is expecting an economic boom from the projected St. Lawrence seaway, which Ives voted against in the U. S. Senate.

No Stopping This North-South Pair

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

If you think that East didn't have much of an opening bid you are quite right. East thought that this was a good time to throw a psychic bid into the works, and he was right, since his opponent had a vulnerable slam between them.

The phychic bid didn't stop the North-South pair. Sidney Aaronson and Larry Weiss, both of Boston, bounced into a slam at no-trump just as though East had passed.

Aaronson's first step was to bid two spades with the North hand. This showed a very big hand, since North could merely double with a hand of moderate strength. Weiss responded with two no-trump instead of bidding a suit.

This bid showed a spade stopper and about eight or nine points, for with a bad hand South could show a suit instead of bidding no-trump. This slight show of strengh was all Aaronson needed for the jump to slam.

West decided to believe his vulnerable opponents about their spade strength, so he opened the jack of diamonds. A spade opening lead would not have set the contract, but the diamond lead fared no better.

Weiss won the first trick with dummy's queen of diamonds, noting the fall of the eight of diamonds with considerable interest. He next cashed the ace of spades and led a low spade towards his hand.

East was tempted to play the king of spades, but he resisted the temptation. Had he done so, South would have been able to make 12 easy tricks; three spades, two hearts, three diamonds and four clubs. Instead East played the nine of spades, allowing South to win the trick with the jack.

Now Weiss had only two spade tricks and didn't dare lead the suit again. The diamonds had to be developed, so declarer led a low diamond from his hand. When West produced the six of diamonds, Weiss finessed dummy's seven.

This bold finesse, based on the assumption that West had led a long suit as long as he hadn't opened spades, held the trick, and now Weiss made his contract with an overtrick.

How About a Code of Ethics Between Parent and Child?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

You all know the news just made by the comic book industry. It has pledged itself to a new, self-regulating code of ethics that promises to remove all offensive material from its magazines.

But you may not all know that the comics, Classics Illustrated, has refused to join in this self-reforming adventure. This is the dialogue that took place when I telephoned its publishers to ask "Why?"

Classics Ill.: We haven't joined because we don't consider ourselves part of the comics industry. We use the comic technique to introduce youngsters to literary classics.

Mrs. L.: Is that your only reason for not joining?

C. I.: No, we have another. We believe that teaching children to judge between good and evil, truth and sensationalism, cleanness and uncleanness is principally their parents' responsibility, not the comic book industry's.

Mrs. L.: Hurray! How glad I am someone is saying so! I am not at all sure that the American parent is to be congratulated because some people he doesn't know are going to protect his children against moral contamination for him. I expect it is part of this queer "Do it for me" trend. However, I'm no perfectionist. If some of us really have found it too strenuous to say "No" to Johnny's "terror-horror" comic books, I suppose somebody has to say it for us. Do you think that this code of ethics will really work?

C. I.: We'd like to think so. But the need for parents and children to work out their own meaningful code of ethics seems to remain.

Mrs. L.: Sooner or later, it's going to be done, too. If this move by the comics industry stimulates us to realize how dependent we are coming to be, that will be its real service in my opinion.

C. I.: Look, about that formal statement you wanted on our refusal to climb on the band wagon. It's this: Before we celebrate the comic industry's new code of ethics as the panacea, we'd like to ask American parents how they are applying their own. We'd like to know what they are doing to guide their most precious charges their children—to understand and choose the good that life has to offer in all their activities, as well as their reading of books and magazines.

Mrs. L.: If you don't mind, I think that I'll let this conversation stand as my comment on the comic book industry's code of ethics.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Did you ever ask yourself what a Government Bond really is? It's a promise to pay, you will say. Right, but a promise to pay what? Dollars. O.K., but what kind of dollars? If you lend the Government a dollar worth one hundred cents, and it pays you back a dollar worth fifty cents, has it kept its promise?

Mr. Hutton

Yes, it has, legally. You can't sue the Government for the difference. You pocket the loss.

With the cost of living at a new all time high, the money you loaned the Government ten years ago is worth less than ever before at the grocery and all other stores.

So, how do you protect yourself? There is just one way. That is to tell the Government to go NO deeper into debt, and to begin to pay off what it already owes. Then your bonds will begin to be worth more, not less. And not only your bonds, but your life insurance and savings bank account.

Yet the Federal Government, and the governments of practically every State, County and City in the nation, are going deeper and deeper into debt with every passing day.

How much longer can this go on? It's up to you, neighbor!

Accidents Gained, State Reports

Albany, Nov. 1—Statistics issued today by Motor Vehicle Commissioner James R. Macduff indicate that while there were 32% less fatilities, automobile accidents and personal injuries increased in New York state during the month of July.

Fatalities dropped from 200 in July of 1953 to 137 during the same period of 1954, but personal injury accidents increased from 9,122 to 9,988. Personal injury cases totalled 15,788 in 1954 as against 13,904 a year ago.

PROPERTY DAMAGE accidents, while less in number this year than last, caused more estimated damage — $7,213,000 as against $6,612,000. There were 16,103 of these mishaps this year and 16,739 last year.

Speed—too fast for driving conditions—caused 15% of the fatal accidents but the number of drivers involved was reduced by 31%.

Pedestrian fatilities in motor vehicle accidents numbered 44, a 28% reduction from a year ago.

Think It Through

By EDWARD F. HUTTON

Did you ever ask yourself what a Government Bond really is? It's a promise to pay, you will say. Right, but a promise to pay what? Dollars. O.K., but what kind of dollars? If you lend the Government a dollar worth one hundred cents, and it pays you back a dollar worth fifty cents, has it kept its promise?

Mr. Hutton

Yes, it has, legally. You can't sue the Government for the difference. You pocket the loss.

With the cost of living at a new all time high, the money you loaned the Government ten years ago is worth less than ever before at the grocery and all other stores.

So, how do you protect yourself? There is just one way. That is to tell the Government to go NO deeper into debt, and to begin to pay off what it already owes. Then your bonds will begin to be worth more, not less. And not only your bonds, but your life insurance and savings bank account.

Yet the Federal Government, and the governments of practically every State, County and City in the nation, are going deeper and deeper into debt with every passing day.

How much longer can this go on? It's up to you, neighbor!

Tinker Street Nursery School Meets Nov. 11

Woodstock, Nov. 2—The second meeting of the year for the Tinker Street Co-operative Nursery School will be held in the Art Gallery, home of the school, Thursday evening, November 11, at 8:15 p. m.

Mrs. Ruth W. S. Coon, assistant professor and director of the four-year-olds at the New Paltz Campus Nursery School, will present a series of slides taken at the school depicting children working with materials—collage, paints, clay, sand, etc. A prepared talk accompanying the showing will stimulate further interest, as it has done so many times before with other parent groups where the slides have been shown.

Besides directing the four-year-old program and supervising student teachers at New Paltz, Mrs. Coon has had eight years of teaching five-year-olds in Goshen; has been instrumental in setting up all-day kindergartens in and around Orange county; has directed nursery schools in Oswego State Teachers' College and has had additional experience teaching first grade in public schools. All persons interested are invited to attend.

A business meeting will follow the program, Mrs. David Carlson, president, presiding. Reports from all committee chairmen will then be made.

The school is in session each week-day from 9 a. m. to 12, in the Art Gallery and visitors who wish to observe the program and physical set-up are welcome. Attractive brochures are available upon request this year.

Villages Goes Wet

Cambridge, Nov. 3 (AP)—This Washington county village, half wet and half dry yesterday, was all wet today. About half of the village is in the town of Cambridge, which had been dry, and the rest in the town of White Creek, which is wet. A street is the dividing line. Yesterday, voters in the town of Cambridge approved four local propositions authorizing the sale of liquor.

Weather Failed To Cut Down Vote

Albany, Nov. 3 (AP)—Wet, raw weather across New York state yesterday apparently failed to chill voter enthusiasm for a hot gubernatorial race.

Despite snow, sleet, cold rains and biting winds, voters flocked to the polling places in most areas, confounding experts who had predicted a light turnout.

Light to moderate snowfalls blanketed the southern tier, and brief, heavy squalls and flurries flitted across the rest of the upstate area.

SNOW WAS FALLING as the polls opened in Buffalo, and rain fell as they closed, light to heavy rain throughout the day in New York city had no noticeable effect on the turnout there, election officials said.

A heavy snowstorm in central New York left the voters undaunted but slowed the flow of election returns when telephone lines went dow in Madison, Cortland and Tompkin counties.

BOONVILLE, in the southern Adirondacks, had the heaviest snowfall—more than 3 inches. Corning and Binghamton reported two inches.

Syracuse, Elmira, Rochester, Rome, Norwich and Hudson were among other cities reporting snowfalls.

Most other areas had light rain.

Temperatures ranged from the 40s and low 50s in the New York city area and the 30s and low 40s upstate.

Snow and wet rain turning to snow was predicted for most areas of the state today.

Case Takes Home Town

Rahway, N. J., Nov. 3 (AP)—Republican Clifford P. Case carried his hometown in yesterday's senatorial election by nearly 2,000 votes. He received 5,656 votes to 3,708 for Democrat Charles R. Howell.

TAG ALONG—Almost everyone at the state fair in Dallas, Tex., stopped and stared at "Yankum," a Southdown lamb, following in the track of its master, Tom Parker. The lamb became devoted to Tom, a 4-H Club member, when he took over the job of raising it on a bottle after its mother rejected it. Now Yankum won't let the boy get out of sight.

Georgia's Amendment Is Trailing Slightly

Atlanta, Nov. 3 (AP)—The bitterly contested constitutional amendment to clear the way for education of Georgia children in segregated private schools was trailing slightly today on returns from Tuesday's general election.

With the unofficial vote in the big city counties virtually complete—and no reports from 31 counties—the count in 787 of the state's 1,810 precincts was 124,453 for the amendment and 126,189 against it.

Gov. Herman Talmadge and Gov.-Elect Marvin Griffin had campaigned vigorously for passage of the measure, the keystone to their proposal to abolish the public school systems as a last-ditch segregation stand.

Stevenson Pleased, He Tells in Illinois

Libertyville, Ill., Nov. 3 (AP)—A weary-eyed Adlai Stevenson—awake since 4 a. m. Tuesday—made this brief comment on yesterday's election as he prepared to retire at 1 a. m.:

"Before I go to bed I want to say that I am pleased with the unmistakable Democratic gains and proud that Democratic candidates fought a clean fight."

Stevenson and a group of about 30 personal friends and members of his former gubernatorial staff listened to election returns in Stevenson's home last night.

How Gulf's new super-refined gasoline delivers thousands of extra miles of full engine power
Now—Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. Result: more power-with-protection than you've ever known!

Here's proof: This spark plug is from one of the many sets of original equipment plugs used in Gulf test fleet cars. Though spark plugs normally need cleaning or replacement after 5,000 to 10,000 miles, this plug and its mates did not need cleaning or replacement in over 15,000 miles of city and country driving with Super-Refined NO-NOX Gasoline.

Here's proof: Instead of trying to fight harmful deposits with so-called "miracle additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place, removes the cause—the "dirty-burning tail-end"—at the refinery. Just look at the plates in the unretouched photo at left and see what a difference Gulf super-refining makes!

What's more, besides giving your engine more complete protection, new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX gives you extra gas mileage in the short-trip, stop-and-go driving motorists do most . . . no knock, no pre-ignition . . . stall-proof smoothness . . . instant starts and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

Three-Inch Rain Falls in Area

Approximately three inches of rain fell in the area during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today, according to the New York City Board of Water Supply.

The reservoirs are low, a spokesman said, and the water "welcome."

It was reported that water in Esopus creek, which has been about three and a half feet deep at Cold Brook during the past month, was running just under nine feet.

MORE RAIN FELL during the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today than fell during the entire month of October. The total rainfall recorded at Brown Station last month was only 1.67 inches.

The fall during September was "a little better" — 4.49 inches. Area readings during the 24 hour period ending at 8 a. m. today:

Brown Station at Ashokan Reservoir, 3.06 inches; Prattsville Station at Schoharie Reservoir, 2.17 inches; Manorkill in Greene county, 2.79; Windham, 2.92; Westkill in the town of Lexington, Greene county, 2.64, and East Jewett, 3.36.

AND IT'S ALL IN LONGHAND—Pfc. William DiSilvestro, stationed in Osaka, Japan, with the 9th Marines, is all wrapped up in this stateside communique. The letter, sent to him by his girl friend, Anne Fiore, of Orange, N. J., measures 35 feet, 7 inches long, and 18 inches wide. It supposedly took the young lady two or three months to complete the letter.

IT'LL NEED PLENTY OF CORNED BEEF—Gardening isn't his line, but blacksmith Henri Laurent, of Hommaize, France, produced a prize cabbage that would make an expert sit up and take notice. He proudly measures the vegetable for a friend. It grew four feet across and measured 13 feet around.

Ballot Guarding Brings Confusion

Albany, Nov. 3 (AP) — Gov. Dewey's order putting police guards on all voting records brought confusion today and in some cases held up compilation of unofficial figures.

In Albany, police who had gone off duty only a few hours earlier were summoned from bed shortly after 3 a. m. and dispatched to polling places, only to find, in many cases, that the buildings were locked and the machines inaccessible. They remained on guard for several hours while city officials sought an interpretation of the order and arranged for machines to be transferred to city hall.

IN SCHOHARIE COUNTY, a sheriff's deputy on duty at the county election board office said no figures could be released under the order. Members of the board were canvassing the county and not available.

In Tioga county, the sheriff's office first said that no count would be permitted. Later, however, the authorities promised to make figures available.

State Voters Okay Propositions

Albany, Nov. 3 (AP)—New York state voters yesterday approved by overwhelming margins two propositions to borrow a total of 550 million dollars for construction of mental hospitals and public housing.

Proposition 1, to authorize a 350-million-dollar bond issue for mental institutions, was approved by a margin of five to one. With about 9,000 of the state's 10,436 precincts reported, the vote was approximately 1,316,000 in favor and 272,000 against.

Proposition 2, to authorize a 200-million-dollar bond issue to finance slum clearance and low-rent housing projects, was approved by a margin of about five to three. With about 9,050 districts reported, the vote was approximately 1,154,000 in favor and 714,000 against.

New York City: 3,194 of 4,194 districts give Del Vecchio (R) 737,887; Levitt (D) 1,238,682; Levitt (L) 201,527; Levitt total 1,440,209; Powe (AL) 44,435.

Charges Are Voided In Court Today

Charges of third degree assault and reckless driving against defendants were voided today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The assault charge against James Woods, 45, of 282 North street, was withdrawn by the complainant Ethel Damon. He was arrested Oct. 30 at 20 Ann street.

The reckless driving charge against William DuBois, 19, of 707 Broadway, was dismissed. He was arrested several days ago at Main street and Clinton avenue.

Two Persons Hurt In Local Mishaps

Two persons were injured in city traffic mishaps yesterday.

Lillian VanVechten, 47, of Nelliston, was reported injured in a two-car collision at Foxhall and Flatbush avenues at about 4:15 p. m., and A. Jerome Pratt, 62, of Highland, reported a shoulder injury after a collision on North Front, near Crown street earlier in the afternoon.

In the later accident, police reported that Lawrence Shultis, 30, of 248 Clifton avenue, was driving north on Foxhall avenue, and the other car, driven by Harold VanVechten, 49, of Nelliston, was headed northerly on Flatbush avenue.

VanVechten was arrested by Shultis on a charge of passing a stop sign, the report said. The case was put over to Nov. 10 when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

POLICE SAID the injured woman was first treated by a doctor and then taken to Kingston Hospital, and the VanVechten car was towed from the scene. It was raining at the time of the mishap, the report said.

In the other mishap, Leon W. Gorsline, 25, of 48 Abruyn street, was headed north on North Front street, and the car of Jerome Pratt was going in the same direction when they collided. The Gorsline car was towed from the scene. Police said Pratt was to be treated by a doctor.

10-Day Recanvass Of Vote Ordered

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—A recanvass of New York city's 4,214 voting machines was ordered today, starting next Tuesday and stretching over the following 10 days.

David B. Costuma, commissioner of the Board of Elections, smoothed over earlier friction with police, who had been ordered not to allow the machines to be moved from the polling places.

Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams clarified a guard-the-machines order stemming from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Adams later told police to accompany the machines to election warehouses and get receipts for them from other police who will continue the guard there.

Dewey, noting the razor-edge Democratic victory yesterday in the race for governor, ordered all voting machines and ballot boxes placed under round-the-clock guard.

The RepublicanselectedSearles The Republicans elected Searles G. Schultz to the Onondaga county Senate seat and Edward J. Speno to the Nassau seat.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—The stock market surged ahead today in a strong advance reflecting satisfaction with election results.

The general Wall Street opinion was that the outcome was better than Republicans had expected and therefore pleasing to the stock market.

Gains in many key areas went to between 1 and 3 points with a few higher priced stocks moving well past that level. Losses were hard to find.

Trading was fast and hit a pace near the three million mark, one of the highest totals of the year. Only 1,790,000 shares were traded Monday in a rising market.

All major divisions advanced with the best gains shown by steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, radio-television, utilities, chemicals, railroads, oils, airlines, coppers, and building materials.

President Not

come generally as any "break away" from the Eisenhower administration policies. The newsman asked whether the President agrees with Hall on that.

Eisenhower replied that during the campaign he was in a very great number of states and that he believes the great mass of the American people favor a moderate approach in dealing with the nation's problems.

Eisenhower added that he hesitates to interpret the elections because he has had very little experience in that field. Yesterday's elections were only the second, he said, in which he has played an active role.

At that point, the same reporter—Edward T. Folliard of the Washington Post and Times Herald—asked the President specifically whether he considered the results as a repudiation of the administration.

The President replied no—not so far as he could see.

Eisenhower appeared a bit grim when he walked into the room crowded with newsmen, but his face broke into a smile as he took his place behind a desk.

Three-Inch Rain Falls in Area

Approximately three inches of rain fell in the area during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today, according to the New York City Board of Water Supply.

The reservoirs are low, a spokesman said, and the water "welcome."

MORE RAIN FELL during the 24 hours ending at 8 a. m. today than fell during the entire month of October. The total rainfall recorded at Brown Station last month was only 1.67 inches.

The fall during September was "a little better" — 4.49 inches. Area readings during the 24 hour period ending at 8 a. m. today:

Brown Station at Ashokan Reservoir, 3.06 inches; Prattsville Station at Schoharie Reservoir, 2.17 inches; Manorkill in Greene county, 2.79; Windham, 2.92; Westkill in the town of Lexington, Greene county, 2.64, and East Jewett, 3.36.

AND IT'S ALL IN LONGHAND—Pfc. William DiSilvestro, stationed in Osaka, Japan, with the 9th Marines, is all wrapped up in this stateside communique. The letter, sent to him by his girl friend, Anne Fiore, of Orange, N. J., measures 35 feet, 7 inches long, and 18 inches wide. It supposedly took the young lady two or three months to complete the letter.

IT'LL NEED PLENTY OF CORNED BEEF—Gardening isn't his line, but blacksmith Henri Laurent, of Hommaize, France, produced a prize cabbage that would make an expert sit up and take notice. He proudly measures the vegetable for a friend. It grew four feet across and measured 13 feet around.

Ballot Guarding Brings Confusion

Albany, Nov. 3 (AP) — Gov. Dewey's order putting police guards on all voting records brought confusion today and in some cases held up compilation of unofficial figures.

In Albany, police who had gone off duty only a few hours earlier were summoned from bed shortly after 3 a. m. and dispatched to polling places, only to find, in many cases, that the buildings were locked and the machines inaccessible. They remained on guard for several hours while city officials sought an interpretation of the order and arranged for machines to be transferred to city hall.

IN SCHOHARIE COUNTY, a sheriff's deputy on duty at the county election board office said no figures could be released under the order. Members of the board were canvassing the county and not available.

In Tioga county, the sheriff's office first said that no count would be permitted. Later, however, the authorities promised to make figures available.

State Voters Okay Propositions

Albany, Nov. 3 (AP)—New York state voters yesterday approved by overwhelming margins two propositions to borrow a total of 550 million dollars for construction of mental hospitals and public housing.

Proposition 1, to authorize a 350-million-dollar bond issue for mental institutions, was approved by a margin of five to one. With about 9,000 of the state's 10,436 precincts reported, the vote was approximately 1,316,000 in favor and 272,000 against.

Proposition 2, to authorize a 200-million-dollar bond issue to finance slum clearance and low-rent housing projects, was approved by a margin of about five to three. With about 9,050 districts reported, the vote was approximately 1,154,000 in favor and 714,000 against.

Charges of third degree assault and reckless driving against defendants were voided today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The assault charge against James Woods, 45, of 282 North street, was withdrawn by the complainant Ethel Damon. He was arrested Oct. 30 at 20 Ann street.

The reckless driving charge against William DuBois, 19, of 707 Broadway, was dismissed. He was arrested several days ago at Main street and Clinton avenue.

Two Persons Hurt In Local Mishaps

Two persons were injured in city traffic mishaps yesterday.

Lillian VanVechten, 47, of Nelliston, was reported injured in a two-car collision at Foxhall and Flatbush avenues at about 4:15 p. m., and A. Jerome Pratt, 62, of Highland, reported a shoulder injury after a collision on North Front, near Crown street earlier in the afternoon.

In the later accident, police reported that Lawrence Shultis, 30, of 248 Clifton avenue, was driving north on Foxhall avenue, and the other car, driven by Harold VanVechten, 49, of Nelliston, was headed northerly on Flatbush avenue.

VanVechten was arrested by Shultis on a charge of passing a stop sign, the report said. The case was put over to Nov. 10 when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino.

POLICE SAID the injured woman was first treated by a doctor and then taken to Kingston Hospital, and the VanVechten car was towed from the scene. It was raining at the time of the mishap, the report said.

In the other mishap, Leon W. Gorsline, 25, of 48 Abruyn street, was headed north on North Front street, and the car of Jerome Pratt was going in the same direction when they collided. The Gorsline car was towed from the scene. Police said Pratt was to be treated by a doctor.

10-Day Recanvass Of Vote Ordered

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—A recanvass of New York city's 4,214 voting machines was ordered today, starting next Tuesday and stretching over the following 10 days.

David B. Costuma, commissioner of the Board of Elections, smoothed over earlier friction with police, who had been ordered not to allow the machines to be moved from the polling places.

Police Commissioner Francis W. H. Adams clarified a guard-the-machines order stemming from Gov. Thomas E. Dewey. Adams later told police to accompany the machines to election warehouses and get receipts for them from other police who will continue the guard there.

man of the Bill Revision Committee.

Sen. Arthur H. Wicks, Kingston Republican, was re-elected.

AMONG THE DEFEATED Republican assemblymen were Samuel Roman of Manhattan, Mrs. Gladys E. Banks of the Bronx, and Mrs. Maude E. Ten Eyck of Manhattan.

Liberal party endorsements helped three Queens Democrats and one in Manhattan into the Senate.

Sen. Francis J. McCaffery, a Democrat, defeated Sen. Joseph F. Periconi, a Republican, in a Bronx district where they were pitted against each other by reapportionment.

The RepublicanselectedSearles

The Republicans elected Searles G. Schultz to the Onondaga county Senate seat and Edward J. Speno to the Nassau seat.

Another merger of districts—this one in the Assembly—cost Republican incumbent John W. Tabner his seat in heavily Democratic Albany county. He was defeated by Assemblyman James J. McGuinness.

In other Assembly results:

Democrat Matthew R. Dwyer defeated Republican Assemblyman George W. Harrington, Democrat Enzo Gaspari outran GOP Assemblyman Thomas E. Ferrandina, and Democrat Fred W. Eggert Jr. defeated Mrs. Banks, all in the Bronx.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—The stock market surged ahead today in a strong advance reflecting satisfaction with election results.

The general Wall Street opinion was that the outcome was better than Republicans had expected and therefore pleasing to the stock market.

Gains in many key areas went to between 1 and 3 points with a few higher priced stocks moving well past that level. Losses were hard to find.

Trading was fast and hit a pace near the three million mark, one of the highest totals of the year. Only 1,790,000 shares were traded Monday in a rising market.

All major divisions advanced with the best gains shown by steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, radio-television, utilities, chemicals, railroads, oils, airlines, coppers, and building materials.

President Not

come generally as any "break away" from the Eisenhower administration policies. The newsman asked whether the President agrees with Hall on that.

Eisenhower replied that during the campaign he was in a very great number of states and that he believes the great mass of the American people favor a moderate approach in dealing with the nation's problems.

Eisenhower added that he hesitates to interpret the elections because he has had very little experience in that field. Yesterday's elections were only the second, he said, in which he has played an active role.

At that point, the same reporter—Edward T. Folliard of the Washington Post and Times Herald—asked the President specifically whether he considered the results as a repudiation of the administration.

The President replied no—not so far as he could see.

Eisenhower appeared a bit grim when he walked into the room crowded with newsmen, but his face broke into a smile as he took his place behind a desk.

JOHNNIE RAY, Columbia Records' great song stylist, who will appear as one of the acts during the 18th annual Congregation Ahavath Israel ball Nov. 24.

Original Stylist Will Appear for Holiday Eve Ball

Columbia Records' sensational singing star, Johnnie Ray, who has more pin-up titles than any Hollywood glamour actress, has been signed to appear at the 18th annual stage show and ball of Congregation Ahavath Israel Wednesday, Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 24, at municipal auditorium.

Herman G. Rafalowsky, general chairman, made the announcement today with a prediction that the 1954 holiday eve ball should rank with the greatest.

"We have secured the services of Johnny Ray as one of the top acts for our ball only after considerable negotiations and I am very happy to confirm his appearance in Kingston," the chairman added.

The makeup of this year's Ahavath Israel show is taking the familiar pattern of others in the past.

Earlier this week, Mr. Rafalowsky announced that Art Mooney and his MGM recording orchestra, would play for dancing. The Mooney orchestra, which hit stardom with its recording of I'm Looking Over a Four Leaf Clover, features the singing of romantic ballads by Alan Foster.

Restoration of Johnnie's hearing, through the use of an aid, had a profound effect on the Columbia recording star. He was gripped by the need for expressing all the pent-up emotions experienced in his earlier years. Without understanding why, he knew he had to perform, that this was to be his release.

Johnny, about 10, suffered the loss of about 83 per cent of his hearing but it wasn't until about five years later his hearing was restored with the use of the aid.

HIS FABULOUS singing style, regarded by a Columbia Records representative as the "guy with the most original and impressive style in years, actually got him started on his brilliant career. Billboard magazine wrote of him, "Be on the lookout for a kid named Johnnie Ray . . . at this point virtually obscure, measures up as the most exciting singing stylist to crop in years. In a word he's electrifying."

Among his many successes, Johnnie Ray recently fulfilled a life-long ambition with his starring role in Irving Berlin's There's No Business Like Show Business at 20th Century Fox. He co-starred with Ethel Merman, Marilyn Monroe, Dan Dailey, Donald O'Connor and Mitzi Gaynor.

When Johnnie Ray opened at the famed Copacabana in New York in 1951 he proceeded to break even Martin and Lewis' record. Gene Knight of the New York Journal American wrote, "The phenomenon of show business" while Bob Sylvester, Daily News, said "he raised more commotion than all of the crooners put together." A New York Daily News critic added one of Johnnie's pin-up titles which has continued on The Atomic Ray, that eighth wonder of the Universe."

In addition to his stupendous success in New York night spots, "Mr. Emotion" made other record engagements at the La Vie en Rose in New York, Ciro's and Mocambo in Hollywood, the Desert Inn, Las Vegas; Chez Paree, Chicago, the Palladium in London and many theatres throughout the country. His success at the Palladium was only second in popularity to Danny Kaye.

CHAIRMAN RAFALOWSKY, who is scheduled to meet this week with his ball committee, also announced today that he will make public the name of this year's master of ceremonies later this week.

"As in other years," Mr. Rafalowsky said, "we're leaving no stones unturned in bringing only the finest entertainment stars to our Thanksgiving Eve ball."

CARDS OF CONDOLENCE

A daughter writes: "My father died two weeks ago. Will you please tell me whether or not it is necessary to acknowledge receipt of condolence cards which the family has received? I have already written personal notes of thanks to those who sent flowers, but there seems to be a difference of opinion as to whether these cards have to be acknowledged. Also, will you please tell me if personal notes should be sent to those who sent pies and cakes and other food to the house during the bereavement. All such persons were thanked personally by a member of the family at the time."

Cards of sympathy are not acknowledged unless a personal note was written on them. All those who brought food who were thanked verbally at the time do not require further thanks.

Suggested Gifts for Baby Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: My friend and I would like to give another friend a baby shower next month. At several showers to which I have gone in the past I noticed that many duplicate items were received and other really essential items were omitted. In order to avoid this would it be proper to write at the bottom of each invitation what each guest should bring so that the mother-to-be will have a complete layette and not all blankets or sweater sets? Will you please tell me what you think of this idea?

Answer: I'm sorry but it would be impossible to take upon yourselves to tell others what they are to bring—practical as it may seem to be.

Who Chooses Maid of Honor?

Dear Mrs. Post: It has always been my intention to have my best friend as maid of honor at my wedding. However, when my fiance's parents heard of of this, they were very much put out and think that I should have asked the groom's sister to be attendant of honor. I feel it is my privilege to ask whoever I want, and not who I am forced to ask. Will you give me your opinion?

Answer: I agree with you. It is very improper for the groom's family to offer any suggestions, nor would anyone suppose the groom's sister slighted because not chosen.

CARDS OF CONDOLENCE

A daughter writes: "My father died two weeks ago. Will you please tell me whether or not it is necessary to acknowledge receipt of condolence cards which the family has received? I have already written personal notes of thanks to those who sent flowers, but there seems to be a difference of opinion as to whether these cards have to be acknowledged. Also, will you please tell me if personal notes should be sent to those who sent pies and cakes and other food to the house during the bereavement. All such persons were thanked personally by a member of the family at the time."

Cards of sympathy are not acknowledged unless a personal note was written on them. All those who brought food who were thanked verbally at the time do not require further thanks.

Suggested Gifts for Baby Shower

Dear Mrs. Post: My friend and I would like to give another friend a baby shower next month. At several showers to which I have gone in the past I noticed that many duplicate items were received and other really essential items were omitted. In order to avoid this would it be proper to write at the bottom of each invitation what each guest should bring so that the mother-to-be will have a complete layette and not all blankets or sweater sets? Will you please tell me what you think of this idea?

Answer: I'm sorry but it would be impossible to take upon yourselves to tell others what they are to bring—practical as it may seem to be.

Who Chooses Maid of Honor?

Dear Mrs. Post: It has always been my intention to have my best friend as maid of honor at my wedding. However, when my fiance's parents heard of of this, they were very much put out and think that I should have asked the groom's sister to be attendant of honor. I feel it is my privilege to ask whoever I want, and not who I am forced to ask. Will you give me your opinion?

Answer: I agree with you. It is very improper for the groom's family to offer any suggestions, nor would anyone suppose the groom's sister slighted because not chosen.

When should a gentleman offer his arm to the lady with him? This and many other manners in public are explained by Mrs. Post in leaflet E-15. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain copy, send 10 cents in coin to Dept. EP, c/o The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

C of C Mails Out Director Ballots

Ballots for the nomination of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce are being mailed today to all members.

The ballots were accompanied by a letter from the election committee, of which William R. Stall is chairman, and a complete list of all active voting members from which the nominees may be selected.

The seven directors retiring Dec. 31 are not eligible for re-election. However, one director, Edward C. Craig, whose term expires, is eligible for nomination because he is filling an unexpired term.

As provided in the Chamber's By-Laws all members participate in the nomination procedure. Each member is asked to name seven eligible members of their choice for the office of director. The ballots will be tabulated in about 10 days by the election committee. The 14 persons receiving the highest number of nominating ballots will be placed on an election ballot to be sent to all members on or about Dec. 1. The seven receiving the highest number of votes will be declared elected.

Officers for 1955 will be elected by the board of directors as constituted after the current election is concluded.

In making this announcement today, Stall urged that all members return the nominating ballots promptly.

Morhouse Gives His View

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—State Republican Chairman L. Judson Morhouse said today it is "obvious" that the outcome of the election is "still undecided and the results can not be determined until after the official recanvass has been completed."

Morhouse said that it appeared Averell Harriman, Democratic-Liberal candidate for governor, had a margin over Sen. Irving M. Ives, the GOP standard-bearer, of "less than" 7,000 votes.

GOP Fights . . .

Neuberger, but about half of Multnomah county's vote, where Neuberger had been running strongly, remained untabulated.

Either party could take Senate control by winning two of the three remaining races, since Vice President Nixon could break a tie for the Republicans if they turned up with 48 members and Morse has promised to vote with the Democrats.

ALTHOUGH the Republicans lost the House by what may be a margin of 25 or more members, President Eisenhower told a White House news conference he does not see in this result any repudiation or disapproval of his administration's policies.

Democrats were pleased with the outcome, but it obviously did not reach the proportions some had expected—a circumstance that some Republicans said could be attributed to Eisenhower's own last minute campaigning and the vigorous drive made by Nixon.

In a give-and-take, Democrats took away Republican seats in Kentucky, Michigan, Nevada and Wyoming, while the Republicans retaliated by grabbing Democratic seats in Ohio, Colorado and Iowa.

BENDER'S VICTORY over Burke was preceded in the tabulations by a successful comeback by former Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney for the Democrats in Wyoming. O'Mahoney beat Republican Rep. William Henry Harrison.

Just previously, Sen. Homer Ferguson, head of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and a recipient of Eisenhower's campaign help, had gone down under an avalanche of Wayne county (Detroit) ballots. The winner in this case was Democrat Patrick V. McNamara.

Before that, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, assistant majority leader, had rallied to defeat Democrat Foster Furcolo in Massachusetts.

Ives Ticket Gets

396 for them on the Liberal ticket.

The Ives-McGovern plurality was 2,927.

Republican candidate Jacob K. Javits, led in the city Republican vote, however, with a total of 7,689. His opponent Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., polled 4,239 on the Democratic ticket and 410 on the liberal ticket Javits' plurality including Social Worker and American Labor votes, was 3,015. He headed Roosevelt, with the latter's Liberal Party vote included, by 3,040 votes.

Both the Republican vote for governor and for state senator were behind the 1950 totals. Dewey polled 8,284 votes in the city in 1950. This was 597 ahead of the Ives-McGovern vote.

SENATOR WICKS polled 8,303 in 1950, and 7,420 yesterday for a drop of 883. These losses were apparently due to a general drop in registration.

Dewey's lead over his opponent Lynch in 1950 was 3,585, and Senator Wicks' lead over his opponent Callahan was 3,734.

The Republican lead yesterday for the governor and running mate was 2,927 and that for Senator Wicks was 2,536.

KENNETH L. WILSON, Republican candidate for member of assembly yesterday polled 7,560 to come out with a plurality of 2,863. His Democratic opponent Norman Kellar polled 4,302 on the Democratic tjcket and 395 Liberal party votes. Wilson ran 129 behind the Ives-McGovern vote and Senator Wicks 269 behind in the city.

Republican Lawrence D. Craft polled 7,471 votes against his Democratic opponent Ross K. Osterhoudt's 4,252 for a majority in the city of 3,219. Francis J. McCardle, unopposed on the Republican ticket polled 8,146.

Frank Del Vecchio, Republican candidate for comptroller received 7,599 votes against 4,293 for his opponent, Arthur Levitt on the Democratic ticket and 422 for Levitt on the Liberal ticket. American Labor votes for this office were 22 with two on the Social Worker ticket, leaving DelVecchio's plurality at 2,860.

J. ERNEST WHARTON, Republican candidate for Congress polled 7,587 votes. His Democratic opponent Robert D. Byron received 4,217 and Mabel Chapman on the Liberal party ticket received 398. Wharton's plurality was 2,972.

Republicans in the 13th ward cast 131 votes for the Ives-McGovern ticket, but this was not enough for a plurality with the Democrats casting 122 and Liberal party 12. A Republican plurality to Senator Wicks was also lost there with the senator polling 128 votes against the Democrats' 120, and a Liberal vote of 14 for Irving Brizel.

Kenneth L. Wilson, candidate for assemblyman, however, on the basis of yesterday's unofficial returns, scored a plurality of two votes in the 13th ward. The count was Wilson 130, Kellar as Democrat 115 and Liberal 13.

CRAFT, REPUBLICAN candidate for county clerk, won over Osterhoudt 131 to 112 in the ward.

Liberal party votes in the seventh ward beat out the Republican total for governor there. The count was 326 Republican against 311 Democratic, plus 27 Liberal votes. A Liberal party vote stopped a Wicks plurality in the ward. The score was 320 Republican votes, 315 Democratic and 25 Brizel the Liberal party candidate.

The sixth ward went more definitely Democratic, the Republicans scoring 253 and the Democrats 287 on the gubernatorial vote, plus 43 on the Liberal party ticket. Four votes went to the American Labor McManus-Morley ticket.

WICKS SCORED 271 against the Democrats' 263 in the sixth ward, but 49 votes for Brizel prevented a plurality. Wilson polled 259 against the Democrats' 276 in that ward and Kellar got 44 more on the Liberal ticket. Craft got 258 and Osterhoudt, Democrat 271 for county clerk in that ward.

The heaviest Republican plurality was 769 votes in the second ward and the second heaviest was 739 in the second ward on the Ives-McGovern vote. The trend was about the same in these wards for the other candidates.

The third ward, which has shown some Democratic trends, in recent elections, showed a Republican plurality of 302. In the ninth ward it was 118, and the 10th 182. The plurality in the 11th was 302 and in the first ward 304. The fourth ward showed a Republican advantage of an even 100.

U. S. Sends . . .

tions on creation of an international atomic agency.

"I hope," Eisenhower said in a statement, "that this will start a new phase in the U. S.-USSR negotiations which will be more fruitful than the first phase during which the Soviets showed a lack of interest in cooperation with the United States to further international cooperation in developing the peaceful uses of atomic energy."

The President emphasized however, that "we are determined to get on with this international project whether or not the Soviets participate."

Efficiency Noted In Mail Payments By Telephone Co.

The New York Telephone Company announced today that its new mail payment plan will not interfere with the operations of the Kingston telephone business office.

Under the new plan, designed for more efficient processing of customers' monthly bills, return envelopes addressed to a central billing unit are included with bills. Customers may pay either by mail using the enclosed envelope, or in person at the local office.

"There is a definite need in Kingston for a business office, where our customers can continue to drop in and discuss their telephone business with our representatives, or to pay their monthly bills in person," Leonard W. Herrick, telephone company manager, said today. Telephone payments will also continue to be received at our payment agencies, he pointed out.

HERRICK SAID the establishment of the centralized billing unit in Mennands permits the telephone company to:

1. Process several more thousands of telephone bills faster and more efficiently with the aid of business machines. The equipment would not be practical in individual business offices where the number of accounts handled is relatively small.

2. CREDIT PAYMENTS to customers' accounts sooner, in many cases an entire day sooner, than was possible before. Mail can be handled faster in a centralized unit which has been set up specifically to care for a huge volume of mail. Mail payments will reach the accounting office earlier because the need to remail the customer's payment from the business office to the Menands accounting office is eliminated.

Herrick also made clear there will be no change in the amount of telephone company deposits in local banks, because all checks received will be returned to the bank on which they were drawn.

"We consider this new payment plan an advantage to our customers because it means increased efficiency for the telephone company. This efficiency is passed on to the customer in the form of more valuable and dependable telephone service. A more efficient telephone company means more efficient telephone service," the manager said.

GOP Wins . . .

Rep. Douglas Stringfellow, Utah had no Senate contest.

Democrats had expected declining farm prices to help swing midwest farmers their way—just as farmer dissatisfaction with the GOP-controlled 80th Congress helped former President Harry S. Truman stage his surprise victory over GOP nominee Thomas E. Dewey in 1948.

The Republicans held their own yesterday in most farm-belt congressional districts that are traditionally Republican.

The GOP staged a major upset in defeating veteran Democratic Sen. Guy M. Gillette in Iowa—a key farm state.

Gillette's defeat was regarded as significant because he had campaigned against the GOP flexible support program—a program endorsed by Rep. Thomas E. Martin, his GOP conqueror. Most political observers had forecast victory for Gillette.

In Kansas — where wheat farmers have been plagued by declining prices — GOP incumbent Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel won on the flexible support issue, defeating former Democratic Sen. George McGill.

The GOP showing in the midwest probably means that secretary Benson's standing at the White House has been strengthened considerably.

Some Republican congressmen had indicated before the election that if the GOP farm program were rebuffed at the polls, they would renew earlier demands that Benson be asked to resign and that the administration revamp its farm policies.

The farm area results also may weaken the hold of high price support backers in the Democratic party and strengthen the influence of a group led by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, a staunch advocate of flexible supports. Anderson won reelection yesterday.

Conflicting Lines

Watch for conflicting lines when you dress to go out. The full, petticoated skirt won't go under a long straight coat. If the budget can't go to a tight, short jacket, manufacture yourself a warm stole out of a pliable but bunchy fabric.

Ribicoff Defeats

picked up about 11,000 votes. Vivien Kellems, widely known for her frequent sallies against the New Deal, got less than 1,500 votes as an independent write-in candidate.

Lodge was seeking his second four-year term. He is a brother of Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, and like Ribicoff served in the House before he wrested the governorship from Chester Bowles by 17,000.

Both Ribicoff and Lodge conducted quiet campaigns, taking pains to refrain from personalities. During the final week, however, former U. S. Rep. John A. McGuire (D.-Conn.), created a stir with the charge that his party had injected the racial and religious issue into the campaign.

McGuire announced then he would vote for Lodge.

The total vote cast was the greatest for a Connecticut off-year election. The previous high was 889,973 in 1950.

Efficiency Noted In Mail Payments By Telephone Co.

The New York Telephone Company announced today that its new mail payment plan will not interfere with the operations of the Kingston telephone business office.

Under the new plan, designed for more efficient processing of customers' monthly bills, return envelopes addressed to a central billing unit are included with bills. Customers may pay either by mail using the enclosed envelope, or in person at the local office.

"There is a definite need in Kingston for a business office, where our customers can continue to drop in and discuss their telephone business with our representatives, or to pay their monthly bills in person," Leonard W. Herrick, telephone company manager, said today. Telephone payments will also continue to be received at our payment agencies, he pointed out.

HERRICK SAID the establishment of the centralized billing unit in Mennands permits the telephone company to:

1. Process several more thousands of telephone bills faster and more efficiently with the aid of business machines. The equipment would not be practical in individual business offices where the number of accounts handled is relatively small.

2. CREDIT PAYMENTS to customers' accounts sooner, in many cases an entire day sooner, than was possible before. Mail can be handled faster in a centralized unit which has been set up specifically to care for a huge volume of mail. Mail payments will reach the accounting office earlier because the need to remail the customer's payment from the business office to the Menands accounting office is eliminated.

Herrick also made clear there will be no change in the amount of telephone company deposits in local banks, because all checks received will be returned to the bank on which they were drawn.

"We consider this new payment plan an advantage to our customers because it means increased efficiency for the telephone company. This efficiency is passed on to the customer in the form of more valuable and dependable telephone service. A more efficient telephone company means more efficient telephone service," the manager said.

Norwich Backs Ives

Norwich, Nov. 3 (AP)—Norwich, hometown of Republican Sen. Irving M. Ives, gave its native son a more than 2-1 plurality in his bid for the governorship. Ives polled 2,933 votes yesterday. Averell Harriman, the Democratic-Liberal candidate, received 1,016.

GOP Wins . . .

Rep. Douglas Stringfellow, Utah had no Senate contest.

Democrats had expected declining farm prices to help swing midwest farmers their way—just as farmer dissatisfaction with the GOP-controlled 80th Congress helped former President Harry S. Truman stage his surprise victory over GOP nominee Thomas E. Dewey in 1948.

The Republicans held their own yesterday in most farm-belt congressional districts that are traditionally Republican.

The GOP staged a major upset in defeating veteran Democratic Sen. Guy M. Gillette in Iowa—a key farm state.

Gillette's defeat was regarded as significant because he had campaigned against the GOP flexible support program—a program endorsed by Rep. Thomas E. Martin, his GOP conqueror. Most political observers had forecast victory for Gillette.

In Kansas — where wheat farmers have been plagued by declining prices — GOP incumbent Sen. Andrew F. Schoeppel won on the flexible support issue, defeating former Democratic Sen. George McGill.

The GOP showing in the midwest probably means that secretary Benson's standing at the White House has been strengthened considerably.

Some Republican congressmen had indicated before the election that if the GOP farm program were rebuffed at the polls, they would renew earlier demands that Benson be asked to resign and that the administration revamp its farm policies.

The farm area results also may weaken the hold of high price support backers in the Democratic party and strengthen the influence of a group led by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, a staunch advocate of flexible supports. Anderson won reelection yesterday.

Conflicting Lines

Watch for conflicting lines when you dress to go out. The full, petticoated skirt won't go under a long straight coat. If the budget can't go to a tight, short jacket, manufacture yourself a warm stole out of a pliable but bunchy fabric.

Ribicoff Defeats

picked up about 11,000 votes. Vivien Kellems, widely known for her frequent sallies against the New Deal, got less than 1,500 votes as an independent write-in candidate.

Lodge was seeking his second four-year term. He is a brother of Henry Cabot Lodge, chief U. S. delegate to the United Nations, and like Ribicoff served in the House before he wrested the governorship from Chester Bowles by 17,000.

Both Ribicoff and Lodge conducted quiet campaigns, taking pains to refrain from personalities. During the final week, however, former U. S. Rep. John A. McGuire (D.-Conn.), created a stir with the charge that his party had injected the racial and religious issue into the campaign.

McGuire announced then he would vote for Lodge.

The total vote cast was the greatest for a Connecticut off-year election. The previous high was 889,973 in 1950.

Boy Scout News

TROOP 6 of the Boy Scouts held its monthly Court of Honor recently when six new members were received and five were advanced in rating.

Invested into membership by Scoutmaster Sherwood Lasher were Roger Colao, Joseph Colao, Peter Keizer and Frank Fabiano. The ceremony was in charge of Charles Powell, assisted by David Eighmey. Mother's pins were presented to the parents.

In a ceremony led by David Lasher, Scouts Terry Wiegert and Robert Bogart were advanced to second class and the First Class ceremony by Explorer Advisor R. J. McCormick brought Michael Sangaline and Robert Schoonmaker up to first class rank.

David Eighmey was presented with a Bronze Palm, denoting five merit badges above Eagle requirements. In pinning on the Palm, it was noted that this is the first one earned in the troop in some years. Sherwood Lasher praised the work of all scouts working and earning merit badges.

A two-year perfect attendance pin was given Richard Showers and Frank Rittie received his second year service star.

New Troop Junior Officers were sworn in by Robert Hillis: Charles Powell as senior patrol leader, Bob Schoonmaker as troop scribe and Frank Rittie as quartermaster. Patrol leaders Phil Eighmey and Bob Bogart were sworn in and given their insignia by David Eighmey.

SHERWOOD LASHER, who has served as scoutmaster for 15 years, is retiring, it was announced by Committeeman Charles Arnold who acted as host to the parents. He will be succeeded by Robert Hillis. Lasher will continue to serve the troop as member of the committee.

CUB PACK 13 held its October meeting at Lawton Park Lodge where the Cubs exhibited the gold nuggets and gold-weighing machines which they made during the month. At a candlelight ceremony the following awards were presented: Jimmy Plunket and Bruce Terwilliger, welcomed as new members of the Pack and received their bobcat pins; bear badges were awarded to John Schwalbach and Michael Martini. Bruce Pech received bear gold and silver arrows, John Schwalbach, two wolf silver arrows and Tom Celuch, a lion gold arrow. One-year service pins were awarded to Gary Terwilliger and John Coffey and two-year service pins to John Schwalbach, Frank Storm, Tom Celuch and Bob Reardon. The Cubs and their parents voted to collect food for a Christmas basket to be given to a needy family. Announcement was made of the Boy Scout Court of Honor No. 23 at the George Washington School. Refreshments were served by Den 1 with Mrs. William Terwilliger, Mrs. Roy Wulff and Mrs. C. I. Angstrom serving.

CRITIC—R. C. Clendenen, staff director of the Senate committee on juvenile delinquency, says movies and TV tend to show the gangster lives a "kingly" life. At the end of the program there's supposed to be a moral—"Crime does not pay." But it paid off too well during the first part of the program to have any effect.

Harriman Appears

or two more than at present. This left the Republicans still in control, However, 34-24.

A gain of eight Assembly seats was registered by the Democrats, but it made little difference, as the GOP majority in 1955 will be 90 to 60.

Voters approved both propositions on yesterday's ballot. The first authorizes a bond issue of 350 million dollars for mental hospital construction. It was endorsed by a 5 to 1 margin. The second proposition, to authorize a bond issue of 200 million dollars for public housing and slum clearance, got the nod by approximately 10 to 7.

REPUBLICAN spokesmen talked of a check on the soldier and absentee ballots in an effort to turn apparent defeat into victory for Ives.

There were unconfirmed reports that 7,000 of 16,000 military ballots were still in the hands of the secretary of state. The other 9,000 were said to have been sent to election boards and counted in the election returns.

There was the possibility also, though no Republican spokesman discussed it, that the GOP might challenge in the courts the right of Harriman to take office, if the official count shows him to have been elected, because he voted in the 1952 District of Columbia presidential primary.

DEWEY SAID in campaign speeches that Harriman's participation in the primary made him a resident of the District of Columbia and thus ineligible to serve as governor because of the constitutional requirement of five consecutive years of residence in the state. Harriman denied that his voting in the Washington primary broke his state residence.

At one stage of the counting last night, Harriman's plurality had climbed to almost 200,000. But big chunks of returns from populous and heavily Republican Nassau and Westchester counties bit deeply into Harriman's lead. Suffolk county also contributed substantially to the late climb by the Republican standard bearer.

NASSAU COUNTY, where J. Russell Sprague is the Republican leader, gave Ives a smashing plurality of 104,711, which was 4,201 better than it handed Governor Dewey in his race against Walter A. Lynch four years ago.

THIS WAS ACHIEVED despite the fact that Sprague had been under heavy attack in connection with the harness racing scandal. Democrats and others alleged that Sprague profited handsomely from harness track stock holdings. He denied any dishonesty.

Suffolk county also gave Ives a bigger majority than it accorded Dewey in 1950. The senator led Harriman there by approximately 49,500.

ELSEWHERE in the state, however, Ives generally had smaller pluralities than Dewey registered four years ago, despite the fact that he polled a slightly higher vote than the man he sought to succeed. The answer was that Harriman did substantially better than Lynch.

Reports from 10,407 of the state's 10,436 districts gave Harriman 2,528,130 and Ives 2,516,459. Harriman's total include 258,199 recorded for him on the Liberal Party line.

Returns from 6,213 of the 6,242 upstate precincts showed a plurality of 683,648 for Ives. The figures: Ives 1,752,599; Harriman 1,068,951. In New York city, Harriman trounced Ives 1,459,179 to 763,860—a plurality of 695,319.

Harriman carried Buffalo and Rochester, the state's second and third largest cities. But Ives ran true to Dewey form by capturing every county outside New York city except heavily Democratic Albany. Ives took only one county in New York city—Richmond, better known as Staten Island.

His showing was indicative of the tremendous work done by the Republican organizations in the last two weeks in getting out the rural and suburban vote, which had been described in the early part of the campaign as apathetic.

Javits made the most spectacular run of anyone on the Republican ticket. He showed unusual strength upstate. Whether this was due to his ballot-box appeal or because Roosevelt was "cut" north of the Bronx, as some observers felt, was conjectural.

With the count completed in 10,128 of the state's 10,436 districts, Javits had amassed a total of 2,467,901 to 2,356,587 for Roosevelt.

UPSTATE, with 30 districts missing, Javits piled up 1,912,111 to Roosevelt's 1,230,471 — a thumping plurality of 681,647. In New York city complete Roosevelt had an edge of 489,565. The vote there was 1,337,901 to 848,336.

The race for comptroller was a nip and tuck affair. With 141 districts unreported, all in GOP-dominated upstate, Levitt had a total vote of 2,494,474 and his opponent 2,472,116.

Upstate, Del Vecchio rolled up 1,734,229 to 1,054,265 for Levitt, or a plurality of 679,964. In New York city, complete, Levitt's margin was 702,322. The vote there was 1,440,209 to 737,886.

With New York city's returns all in but with 924 upstate districts unreported, Burke held a lead of 2,376,310 to 2,136,920 over Foster. Foster ran ahead of Burke upstate, 1,442,895 to 915,249, but in New York city the count was 1,461,061 to 694,025 in the Democrat's favor.

BOTH MAJOR PARTIES endorsed Albert Conway, Brooklyn Democrat, for chief judge of the Court of Appeals to succeed retiring Edmund H. Lewis, Skaneateles Republican. Conway has been an associate judge of the court.

Both parties also endorsed two associate judges for full 15-year terms—Charles Desmond of Buffalo, a Democrat whose present term expires Dec. 31, and John R. Van Voorhis of Irondequoit, a Republican who has been serving by appointment of Gov. Dewey.

Candidates for lieutenant-governor, Democrat-Liberal George B. De Luca, Bronx district attorney, and Republican J. Raymond McGovern of New Rochelle, now state comptroller, each received the same number of votes as Harriman and Ives respectively. Under a new law, applicable this year for the first time, the candidates for governor and lieutenant-governor on each ticket are voted for simultaneously.

Judgment Given In Ambrose Case

Judgment has been entered in the Ulster County clerk's office in Michael Ambrose against the City of Kingston, which came before Justice Donald S. Taylor at the October term of Supreme Court in Ulster county.

The case involved the use of the property of plaintiff at 8-28 Jansen avenue which has been in the residential zone of the city of Kingston since 1928. For a period the property was rented to a tenant who used the same for a bag factory and in 1953 the Zoning Board of the City ordered discontinuance of that use. In November 1953 after the bag factory moved out, plaintiff endeavored to have the property placed in the business zone but the Common Council, after a hearing, refused to rezone the premises.

PLAINTIFF AMBROSE then commenced an action contending that the ordinance was unconstitutional and confiscatory so far as it restricted the use of the premises in question to residential uses for the reasons that the property both before and after the zoning ordinance was used solely for business purposes; that the property was along the New York Central Railroad tracks and not adapted to residential uses and that other properties on the same block are in the industrial zone.

The judgment of the court provided that plaintiff, Ambrose, can use the premises for all purposes permissible under the business use provisions of the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Kingston but cannot use the same for any industrial use thereby insuring that there will be no recurrence of any use such as that of the former tenant for a bag factory.

Vincent G. Connelly of Connelly and Connelly appeared for the plaintiff Ambrose and Corporation Counsel James J. Abernethy appeared for the city.

TROOP 6 of the Boy Scouts held its monthly Court of Honor recently when six new members were received and five were advanced in rating.

Invested into membership by Scoutmaster Sherwood Lasher were Roger Colao, Joseph Colao, Peter Keizer and Frank Fabiano. The ceremony was in charge of Charles Powell, assisted by David Eighmey. Mother's pins were presented to the parents.

In a ceremony led by David Lasher, Scouts Terry Wiegert and Robert Bogart were advanced to second class and the First Class ceremony by Explorer Advisor R. J. McCormick brought Michael Sangaline and Robert Schoonmaker up to first class rank.

David Eighmey was presented with a Bronze Palm, denoting five merit badges above Eagle requirements. In pinning on the Palm, it was noted that this is the first one earned in the troop in some years. Sherwood Lasher praised the work of all scouts working and earning merit badges.

A two-year perfect attendance pin was given Richard Showers and Frank Rittie received his second year service star.

New Troop Junior Officers were sworn in by Robert Hillis: Charles Powell as senior patrol leader, Bob Schoonmaker as troop scribe and Frank Rittie as quartermaster. Patrol leaders Phil Eighmey and Bob Bogart were sworn in and given their insignia by David Eighmey.

SHERWOOD LASHER, who has served as scoutmaster for 15 years, is retiring, it was announced by Committeeman Charles Arnold who acted as host to the parents. He will be succeeded by Robert Hillis. Lasher will continue to serve the troop as member of the committee.

CUB PACK 13 held its October meeting at Lawton Park Lodge where the Cubs exhibited the gold nuggets and gold-weighing machines which they made during the month. At a candlelight ceremony the following awards were presented: Jimmy Plunket and Bruce Terwilliger, welcomed as new members of the Pack and received their bobcat pins; bear badges were awarded to John Schwalbach and Michael Martini. Bruce Pech received bear gold and silver arrows, John Schwalbach, two wolf silver arrows and Tom Celuch, a lion gold arrow. One-year service pins were awarded to Gary Terwilliger and John Coffey and two-year service pins to John Schwalbach, Frank Storm, Tom Celuch and Bob Reardon. The Cubs and their parents voted to collect food for a Christmas basket to be given to a needy family. Announcement was made of the Boy Scout Court of Honor No. 23 at the George Washington School. Refreshments were served by Den 1 with Mrs. William Terwilliger, Mrs. Roy Wulff and Mrs. C. I. Angstrom serving.

CRITIC—R. C. Clendenen, staff director of the Senate committee on juvenile delinquency, says movies and TV tend to show the gangster lives a "kingly" life. At the end of the program there's supposed to be a moral—"Crime does not pay." But it paid off too well during the first part of the program to have any effect.

Harriman Appears

or two more than at present. This left the Republicans still in control, However, 34-24.

A gain of eight Assembly seats was registered by the Democrats, but it made little difference, as the GOP majority in 1955 will be 90 to 60.

Voters approved both propositions on yesterday's ballot. The first authorizes a bond issue of 350 million dollars for mental hospital construction. It was endorsed by a 5 to 1 margin. The second proposition, to authorize a bond issue of 200 million dollars for public housing and slum clearance, got the nod by approximately 10 to 7.

REPUBLICAN spokesmen talked of a check on the soldier and absentee ballots in an effort to turn apparent defeat into victory for Ives.

There were unconfirmed reports that 7,000 of 16,000 military ballots were still in the hands of the secretary of state. The other 9,000 were said to have been sent to election boards and counted in the election returns.

There was the possibility also, though no Republican spokesman discussed it, that the GOP might challenge in the courts the right of Harriman to take office, if the official count shows him to have been elected, because he voted in the 1952 District of Columbia presidential primary.

DEWEY SAID in campaign speeches that Harriman's participation in the primary made him a resident of the District of Columbia and thus ineligible to serve as governor because of the constitutional requirement of five consecutive years of residence in the state. Harriman denied that his voting in the Washington primary broke his state residence.

At one stage of the counting last night, Harriman's plurality had climbed to almost 200,000. But big chunks of returns from populous and heavily Republican Nassau and Westchester counties bit deeply into Harriman's lead. Suffolk county also contributed substantially to the late climb by the Republican standard bearer.

NASSAU COUNTY, where J. Russell Sprague is the Republican leader, gave Ives a smashing plurality of 104,711, which was 4,201 better than it handed Governor Dewey in his race against Walter A. Lynch four years ago.

THIS WAS ACHIEVED despite the fact that Sprague had been under heavy attack in connection with the harness racing scandal. Democrats and others alleged that Sprague profited handsomely from harness track stock holdings. He denied any dishonesty.

Suffolk county also gave Ives a bigger majority than it accorded Dewey in 1950. The senator led Harriman there by approximately 49,500.

ELSEWHERE in the state, however, Ives generally had smaller pluralities than Dewey registered four years ago, despite the fact that he polled a slightly higher vote than the man he sought to succeed. The answer was that Harriman did substantially better than Lynch.

Reports from 10,407 of the state's 10,436 districts gave Harriman 2,528,130 and Ives 2,516,459. Harriman's total include 258,199 recorded for him on the Liberal Party line.

Returns from 6,213 of the 6,242 upstate precincts showed a plurality of 683,648 for Ives. The figures: Ives 1,752,599; Harriman 1,068,951. In New York city, Harriman trounced Ives 1,459,179 to 763,860—a plurality of 695,319.

Harriman carried Buffalo and Rochester, the state's second and third largest cities. But Ives ran true to Dewey form by capturing every county outside New York city except heavily Democratic Albany. Ives took only one county in New York city—Richmond, better known as Staten Island.

His showing was indicative of the tremendous work done by the Republican organizations in the last two weeks in getting out the rural and suburban vote, which had been described in the early part of the campaign as apathetic.

Javits made the most spectacular run of anyone on the Republican ticket. He showed unusual strength upstate. Whether this was due to his ballot-box appeal or because Roosevelt was "cut" north of the Bronx, as some observers felt, was conjectural.

With the count completed in 10,128 of the state's 10,436 districts, Javits had amassed a total of 2,467,901 to 2,356,587 for Roosevelt.

UPSTATE, with 30 districts missing, Javits piled up 1,912,111 to Roosevelt's 1,230,471 — a thumping plurality of 681,647. In New York city complete Roosevelt had an edge of 489,565. The vote there was 1,337,901 to 848,336.

The race for comptroller was a nip and tuck affair. With 141 districts unreported, all in GOP-dominated upstate, Levitt had a total vote of 2,494,474 and his opponent 2,472,116.

Upstate, Del Vecchio rolled up 1,734,229 to 1,054,265 for Levitt, or a plurality of 679,964. In New York city, complete, Levitt's margin was 702,322. The vote there was 1,440,209 to 737,886.

With New York city's returns all in but with 924 upstate districts unreported, Burke held a lead of 2,376,310 to 2,136,920 over Foster. Foster ran ahead of Burke upstate, 1,442,895 to 915,249, but in New York city the count was 1,461,061 to 694,025 in the Democrat's favor.

First Time in regular grade gasoline

TCP—the greatest gasoline development in 31 years—stops the greatest cause of power waste

New Shell Gasoline—regular grade—gives performance never before possible with regular grade fuel

Now motorists whose engines were designed to operate on regular grade fuels are offered a remarkable new gasoline.

This new gasoline contains TCP*, the Shell-developed additive which overcomes the greatest cause of power loss in the majority of cars on the road today.

A year ago TCP additive was introduced in Shell Premium Gasoline exclusively. Its acceptance has proved that TCP is indeed the greatest gasoline development since the introduction of tetraethyl lead.

New Shell Gasoline (regular grade)—now with TCP—benefits engine performance in two ways. First, by "fireproofing" combustion chamber deposits, it effectively controls pre-ignition. Second, by changing the deposits on the spark plugs to non-conductors of electricity, TCP additive stops misfiring. Each plug fires as it should, preventing fuel waste.

Gives performance never before possible with regular grade fuel

By correcting these engine troubles, Shell Gasoline (regular grade) with TCP gives an increase in acceleration, in smoothness of engine operation and in mileage.

Because engine deposits form constantly, continued use of Shell Gasoline (regular grade) with TCP is essential to retain its benefits. Now at all Shell Dealers.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

First Time in regular grade gasoline

TCP—the greatest gasoline development in 31 years—stops the greatest cause of power waste

New Shell Gasoline—regular grade—gives performance never before possible with regular grade fuel

Now motorists whose engines were designed to operate on regular grade fuels are offered a remarkable new gasoline.

This new gasoline contains TCP*, the Shell-developed additive which overcomes the greatest cause of power loss in the majority of cars on the road today.

A year ago TCP additive was introduced in Shell Premium Gasoline exclusively. Its acceptance has proved that TCP is indeed the greatest gasoline development since the introduction of tetraethyl lead.

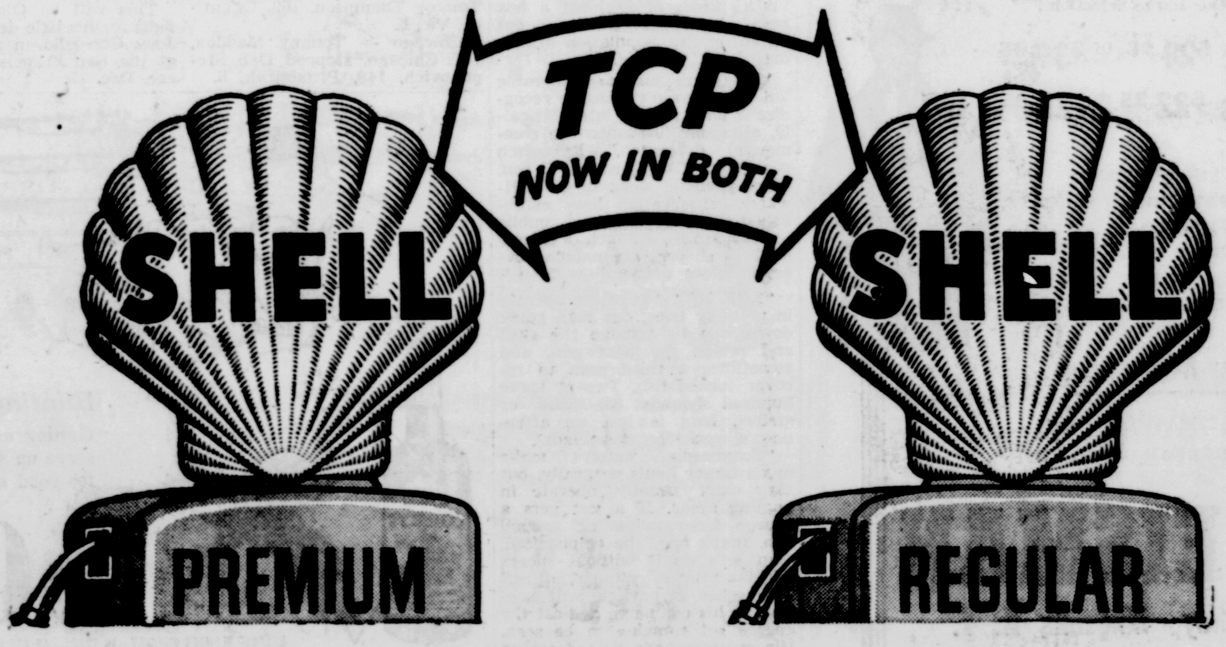
New Shell Gasoline (regular grade)—now with TCP—benefits engine performance in two ways. First, by "fireproofing" combustion chamber deposits, it effectively controls pre-ignition. Second, by changing the deposits on the spark plugs to non-conductors of electricity, TCP additive stops misfiring. Each plug fires as it should, preventing fuel waste.

Gives performance never before possible with regular grade fuel

By correcting these engine troubles, Shell Gasoline (regular grade) with TCP gives an increase in acceleration, in smoothness of engine operation and in mileage.

Because engine deposits form constantly, continued use of Shell Gasoline (regular grade) with TCP is essential to retain its benefits. Now at all Shell Dealers.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.



Middletown Wins Over Blues, 28-7, to Tie For DUSO Lead

Myers Fires Three Passes for TDs

DUSO Standing

Middletown	2	0
Newburgh	2	0
Kingston	1	1
Poughkeepsie	1	2
Port Jervis	0	3

Quarterback Ray Myers, a sure-fire All-DUSO choice, pitched for three touchdowns in a blinding rainstorm, as Middletown High bolstered its DUSO League pennant hopes with a decisive 28-7 victory over Poughkeepsie yesterday at Memorial Field in the Bridge City.

The hard hitting Middies swept to 22 points in the first period as bad passes from center and fumbles forced Poughkeepsie to relinquish the ball the first four times they handled it.

THE SECOND HALF was scoreless but by that time Coach John Nania's surprise package had the game salted away under conditions that grew steadily worse as the contest progressed.

The Middies advanced to the Poughkeepsie 9 and 15 yard lines and were pounding on 1 when the game ended.

Myers completed two TD passes to halfback Kim Smith and a 59-yarder to end Bob DePew.

A bad pass from center sailed over Monty Stickles' head into the end zone and the basketball ace was tackled there for a safety in the first two minutes of play.

Middletown swooped to a first down after Monty Stickles fell on a bad pass on the Poughkeepsie 20. Myers passed to Kim Smith from the 4 to make it 8-0.

LATER IN THE first period, Poughkeepsie stalled a Middie threat on the 16 when a pass was intercepted in the end zone. When Stickles punted out to Smith on the Poughkeepsie 41 the flashy Middie back went all the way for the second TD and Myers converted for a 15-0 margin.

A fourth down gamble misfired for the Blues on their own 39. A moment later Myers hit Bob DePew from the 41. DePew caught it on the 26 and went the rest of the way to make it 22-0 on the last play of the first period.

Poughkeepsie averted a shutout early in the second period when sophomore halfback Jimmy Sprow, just moved up from the Jayvees, hit Monty Stickles with a pass on the Middie 25 and Stickles ran over for the score. Stickles place kicked the extra point and it was 22-7.

MIDDLETOWN MARCHED 50 yards for its final score in the second period. First Myers completed a pass to Nate King on the Poughkeepsie 24. On fourth down of the next sequence Myers connected with Smith for the second time to complete the scoring at 28-7.

Playing without Charlie Johnson, the Blues offered only token resistance. On a dry field, the score might have been considerably higher in Middletown's favor.

Three Middie ALL-DUSO candidates — quarterback Myers, halfback Smith and end, Bob DePew, played brilliantly for the winners.

OUT OF DOORS with

Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Spear fishermen kill comparatively more mature gamefish than commercial netters, and worst of all, they work over areas which ordinarily provide refuge to resident fish populations.

These are the arguments of John Rybovitch, who heads up the unofficial anti-spearing fish movement in West Palm Beach, Fla., a trend we have observed growing by leaps and bounds in several coastal states.

ROD-AND-REELERS who once gaped in awe when goggle-eyed fin-flipper popped up under the dock, are now inclined to drop the bait bucket on his head.

According to Rybovitch, the sportsman who's being hurt the most is the bridge and pier addict who depends on these structures for his place over the water.

"Bridges, piers and docks are natural cover and feeding places for all kinds of fish, but a few men with spears can wipe out an entire fish population almost overnight," he said.

"Reefs are just as vulnerable but people aren't going to recognize it until it's too late. Basically, all spear fishermen are commercial fishermen," Rybovitch continued. "They just kill to sell. After years of work to get saltwater conservation laws established and educating the public to release fish, a bunch of aquatic thrill chasers are undoing everything we accomplished.

"THE REEF regulars operate in pairs or trios, one man going down, one to manage the skiff and reload the next gun, and sometimes a third man to recover corked fish. Two or three hundred pounds of snook or striped bass is just an afternoon's work for these lads.

"Commercial netters make much larger hauls naturally, but they can't usually operate in angling areas. If a gut gets a charge from swimming around fish, that's fine," he emphasized, "but let's do it without spears and the taint of commercialism."

Whether Rybovitch will succeed in his campaign against the goggle set remains to be seen. His opinions have gained strong support in angling circles and possibly one day soon professional biologists will have the answer to the dilemma. How many fish are under the dock?

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

A recent item on these pages reporting the result of the Antonino Rocca-Hans Schmidt wrestling brawl at Madison Square Garden brought a quick and enthusiastic response from Jean Freer, of 80 Bruyn avenue, Kingston.

It was an unusual item because we seldom carry the results of Garden wrestling shows. The Associated Press ignores the contests; the New York State Athletic Commission insists they be advertised as 'exhibitions' and not matches.

The city directory lists Miss Freer as a nurse's aide and, quite obviously, she is among the intelligentsia of wrestling fans.

Miss Freer deplores the lack of publicity for wrestling and its colorfully named principals. She presents her case with such clarity and intelligence that it is a pleasure to reprint en toto a letter she recently directed to this department.

"Why is wrestling ignored by the sportswriters?" she asks. Before answering, we present her letter:

"I want to thank you for printing some news on wrestling in the sports pages of the Freeman last Wednesday night. Wrestling could use some good newspaper publicity more often. Why is wrestling ignored by the sportswriters? Around this immediate area wrestling could stand a boost.

"After all wrestling is not a sport that has just been introduced to the people. It is well over 1000 years old. It is a business where all trained athletes can make a living just the same as baseball and boxing, etc. Most of the wrestlers are college graduates and most of them are mentally superior to other athletes.

"Wrestlers are people, but cannot live normal lives like most of us as most of their own time is spent travelling from one city to another for engagements. They have their families and their hobbies just the same way as anyone else. However, some people fail to realize this fact and so rumors start flying all over the country . . . calling wrestling a fake.

"I suppose it's a fake, too, when a wrestler is injured and lays in a hospital for months at a time. No person is going to get in a ring and be slammed around, especially a person with a good education just for the sake of making big money, when he could be making his living in some other profession. Many of these athletes are lawyers, doctors, engineers, etc.

"Taking all these facts into consideration, how about giving the sport some publicity more often? Wrestling is being avoided by the sportswriters as if it were a plague of some sort. Thanks, anyway, for the news you did have in the paper. . . . Yours in sports. Jean Freer."

No, Miss Freer, wrestling is not a plague and its headline purveyors of histrionics are not afflicted with any dread disease. Wrestling, modern style, is just a beautiful illusion.

Wrestling TV brings comfort and relaxation to millions of American homes. The rasslers give you a great show, gaudy regalia, brilliant action, unbelievable characters. But it remains an illusion. Its high jinks should be enjoyed for what they're worth—solid entertainment—but shouldn't be taken too seriously, despite an occasional injury.

Few people in our business regard wrestling as a legitimate contest. The New York State Athletic Commission says it's an exhibition, nothing else. But the sports flourishes through the medium of TV.

A legitimate wrestling match, with no holds barred and for keeps, might bore you to death, Miss Freer. From a newspaper standpoint it is ridiculous to presume to "cover" a match where the "hero" flattens the "villain" with a consistency that is too frequent to be co-incidental. It just doesn't happen in any other sport.

Panther Workout Set for Olson

Richmond, Calif., Nov. 3 (AP)—Garth Panter, whose only ring finesse is to bore in and keep swinging, faces the slightly Herculean job tonight of trying to beat the world middleweight champion, Carl (Bobo) Olson.

The 10-round nontitle clash will be nationally televised, CBS, 7 p. m., PST.

This will be Olson's tune-up fight for his title defense against Joey Giardello in a 15-rounder at the San Francisco Cow Palace, Dec. 15.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By AL McCLANE
(Fishing Editor)

Spear fishermen kill comparatively more mature gamefish than commercial netters, and worst of all, they work over areas which ordinarily provide refuge to resident fish populations.

These are the arguments of John Rybovitch, who heads up the unofficial anti-spearing fish movement in West Palm Beach, Fla., a trend we have observed growing by leaps and bounds in several coastal states.

ROD-AND-REELERS who once gaped in awe when goggle-eyed fin-flipper popped up under the dock, are now inclined to drop the bait bucket on his head.

According to Rybovitch, the sportsman who's being hurt the most is the bridge and pier addict who depends on these structures for his place over the water.

"Bridges, piers and docks are natural cover and feeding places for all kinds of fish, but a few men with spears can wipe out an entire fish population almost overnight," he said.

"Reefs are just as vulnerable but people aren't going to recognize it until it's too late. Basically, all spear fishermen are commercial fishermen," Rybovitch continued. "They just kill to sell. After years of work to get saltwater conservation laws established and educating the public to release fish, a bunch of aquatic thrill chasers are undoing everything we accomplished.

"THE REEF regulars operate in pairs or trios, one man going down, one to manage the skiff and reload the next gun, and sometimes a third man to recover corked fish. Two or three hundred pounds of snook or striped bass is just an afternoon's work for these lads.

"Commercial netters make much larger hauls naturally, but they can't usually operate in angling areas. If a gut gets a charge from swimming around fish, that's fine," he emphasized, "but let's do it without spears and the taint of commercialism."

Whether Rybovitch will succeed in his campaign against the goggle set remains to be seen. His opinions have gained strong support in angling circles and possibly one day soon professional biologists will have the answer to the dilemma. How many fish are under the dock?

SPORTS

By Charles J. Tiano
Sports Editor

A recent item on these pages reporting the result of the Antonino Rocca-Hans Schmidt wrestling brawl at Madison Square Garden brought a quick and enthusiastic response from Jean Freer, of 80 Bruyn avenue, Kingston.

It was an unusual item because we seldom carry the results of Garden wrestling shows. The Associated Press ignores the contests; the New York State Athletic Commission insists they be advertised as 'exhibitions' and not matches.

The city directory lists Miss Freer as a nurse's aide and, quite obviously, she is among the intelligentsia of wrestling fans.

Miss Freer deplores the lack of publicity for wrestling and its colorfully named principals. She presents her case with such clarity and intelligence that it is a pleasure to reprint en toto a letter she recently directed to this department.

"Why is wrestling ignored by the sportswriters?" she asks. Before answering, we present her letter:

"I want to thank you for printing some news on wrestling in the sports pages of the Freeman last Wednesday night. Wrestling could use some good newspaper publicity more often. Why is wrestling ignored by the sportswriters? Around this immediate area wrestling could stand a boost.

"After all wrestling is not a sport that has just been introduced to the people. It is well over 1000 years old. It is a business where all trained athletes can make a living just the same as baseball and boxing, etc. Most of the wrestlers are college graduates and most of them are mentally superior to other athletes.

"Wrestlers are people, but cannot live normal lives like most of us as most of their own time is spent travelling from one city to another for engagements. They have their families and their hobbies just the same way as anyone else. However, some people fail to realize this fact and so rumors start flying all over the country . . . calling wrestling a fake.

"I suppose it's a fake, too, when a wrestler is injured and lays in a hospital for months at a time. No person is going to get in a ring and be slammed around, especially a person with a good education just for the sake of making big money, when he could be making his living in some other profession. Many of these athletes are lawyers, doctors, engineers, etc.

"Taking all these facts into consideration, how about giving the sport some publicity more often? Wrestling is being avoided by the sportswriters as if it were a plague of some sort. Thanks, anyway, for the news you did have in the paper. . . . Yours in sports. Jean Freer."

No, Miss Freer, wrestling is not a plague and its headline purveyors of histrionics are not afflicted with any dread disease. Wrestling, modern style, is just a beautiful illusion.

Wrestling TV brings comfort and relaxation to millions of American homes. The rasslers give you a great show, gaudy regalia, brilliant action, unbelievable characters. But it remains an illusion. Its high jinks should be enjoyed for what they're worth—solid entertainment—but shouldn't be taken too seriously, despite an occasional injury.

Few people in our business regard wrestling as a legitimate contest. The New York State Athletic Commission says it's an exhibition, nothing else. But the sports flourishes through the medium of TV.

A legitimate wrestling match, with no holds barred and for keeps, might bore you to death, Miss Freer. From a newspaper standpoint it is ridiculous to presume to "cover" a match where the "hero" flattens the "villain" with a consistency that is too frequent to be co-incidental. It just doesn't happen in any other sport.

Network Deficits Hint Dim NCAA-TV Future

Loss of Two Million Expected This Year

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—Football's four million dollar television show may cost the sponsoring network nearly two million dollars and the chances are the colleges will have to accept a lot less money for the rights to televise their games next fall.

The "guess" in the television industry is that the American Broadcasting Company will lose about $1,800,000 on its 4½ million dollar "package" this year. This includes 12 weeks of football television, supporting radio shows that are paying their own way, and a 26-week program of other college sports which will begin in December.

ABC naturally, isn't giving out any figures but halfway through the football season, these facts can be fairly well confirmed through conversations—some off the record—with television executives, NCAA Committee members and leaders of the opposition of the NCAA control plan.

1. The broadcasting company is losing a peck of money because it couldn't find sponsors to pay the full costs of the NCAA "Game of the Week." This already has led, in part, to a shakeup of ABC executive personnel and likely will have an important bearing on future bids for college football rights.

2. The Big Ten, with some support from the Pacific Coast Conference, is campaigning vigorously for a chance in the control system, putting the telecasts on a regional, instead of national basis. Tug Wilson, Fritz Crisler and other Big Ten leaders cite the shortage of sponsors and the 1954 difficulties as an argument for their plan.

3. Almost any day, Ed (Moose) Krause of Notre Dame will begin another strong pitch for unrestricted football television, which Notre Dame always has favored. He concedes the regional plan is "a step forward," especially since the Big Ten once opposed all television, and he raises the spectre of competition from professional football.

4. MEMBERS OF THE NCAA television committee believe strongly that a "hold the line" policy is necessary now. They'd be willing to make some concessions and already have made a few to help out ABC, but they feel any change in the basic concept of the NCAA controls would hurt. Protection of the colleges' gate receipts is the No. 1 factor, and the television receipts are comparatively unimportant.

5. Virtually everyone familiar with the situation agrees that "something" is bound to happen before next season. No one can say what will happen, except that the price of the NCAA "package" is so high it will have to come down.

6. All these factors could cause a terrific hassle at the NCAA convention next January unless the present committee comes up with a plan that can't be attacked or unless the potential sponsors are convinced by this year's program that college football is a good "buy." January is when everything likely will be decided.

ONE FACTOR THAT can't be judged now is that the NCAA and ABC have been very fortunate in their programming. There hasn't been a game so far to draw howls of wrath from the TV viewers.

One reason why the sponsor of the 1952-53 college program, General Motors, failed to show interest this year is believed to be that it was stuck with some unattractive games and "panorama" programs last season and NCAA restrictions prevented major changes.

The five sponsors of the national program this year all seem to be well satisfied with the games. That may be, as one ABC executive admitted, "because it's the only game and the price is right—for them."

It is generally agreed in the television industry that college football is worth a huge sum as long as it is exclusive. Regional programs, with their greater local appeal, would be easier to peddle if the price was right.

"If the Big Ten asked as much for its regional game as they now get for a national game, we couldn't sell it to anyone," pointed out Tom Velotta, ABC vice president in charge of the football program. "The value depends on exclusiveness."

"HOW MANY advertisers can go for 4½ million in 12 weeks?" asked another TV executive. "You, or even Mordecai Brown, could count them on the fingers of one hand."

"When General Motors pulled out, the ad agencies figured it was a buyer's market," another TV man explained. "They thought they could dictate the price instead of the networks."

The huge General Motors Corporation, collaborating with the National Broadcasting Company in the bids, picked up the entire tab for the past two years. ABC, bidding on its own, couldn't find another single sponsor and started belatedly to sell football piecemeal. That, in brief, explains the big losses.

Where's the Fire?

Waynesboro, Va. (AP) — Raymond T. Hunter was serving as a member of a jury when the procedure was interrupted by sirens and clanging fire engines. Police Sgt. M. N. Finger Injury Likely to End Allie's Career

Oklahoma City, Nov. 3 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, the big Indian righthander who reached the major league heights during an eight-year span with the New York Yankees, may have pitched his last baseball game.

A nasty cut on the right index finger added new fuel to retirement rumors which were already persistent because of his age—he'll be 38 in February—and a chronic back ailment. He cut the finger to the bone in a shower room accident last Thursday in Colorado Springs, Colo., following a deer hunt.

With this development, there are three big question marks surrounding his baseball future:

1. Whether the grafting operation performed after the accident will prevent the crippling of his pitching hand.

2. How his back feels in spring training.

3. SUCCESS OF his oil business which will determine whether he wants to pitch another year for the $30,000 or so he can expect to earn.

Reynolds, who has often hinted at retirement the past two years, indicated he won't make his decision until he sees how the cut actually affects his pitching. The wound was to be examined today.

The hefty fireballer, who got off to a superb start last season, slowed considerably in the stretch and wound up with a 13-4 record. He has won 131 games and lost 60 in eight years with the Yanks, hurling two no-hitters in 1951 and reaching his peak in 1952 with a 20-8 mark.

No other pitcher has equalled his record of having appeared in 15 World Series games and his seven series victories ties another mark.

German Jumpers Take 1st Two Events in Horse Show

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—Hans Winkler, who works for an aspirin manufacturer in Germany, is giving headaches to the international horse set.

The world champion jumper from Frankfurt helped the West German team win two important international events yesterday as the National Horse Show opened at Madison Square Garden.

Winkler, a handsome dark haired man of 28, has been riding since 1948—the last two years in international shows. He won the world championship this year at Madrid after finishing second last year.

Last night he won the International Good Will challenge trophy over riders from Spain, Mexico, Canada and the United States on his 9-year-old mare Halla.

HANS IS A little man, only about 135 pounds, but he handles his mounts with the greatest of ease. Halla is his special prize. He believes his mare is fast developing into one of the best jumpers now in competition.

Halla skimmed over the difficult 10-jump course to win the Good Will with the only faultless ride of the night. Seven others knocked down one barrier each.

Winkler's teammate, Fritz Thiedemann on Nordstorn, also had a perfect ride in the afternoon low score team competition, won by the Germans. Although the West Germany and Mexican teams each had 12 faults, the Germans won on a time basis with 107.3 seconds to Mexico's 114.3 seconds. (The total elapsed time for the three contestants).

It was the first time since 1930 the German national anthem had blared forth at national show.

Holyoke, Mass.—Earl Dennis, 145, New York, stopped Young Sharkey, 141½, Holyoke, 5.

Galveston, Tex.—Chino Saavedra, 135, Torreon, Mexico, outpointed Ralph Capone, 134, Chicago, 10.

Finger Injury Likely to End Allie's Career

Oklahoma City, Nov. 3 (AP)—Allie Reynolds, the big Indian righthander who reached the major league heights during an eight-year span with the New York Yankees, may have pitched his last baseball game.

A nasty cut on the right index finger added new fuel to retirement rumors which were already persistent because of his age—he'll be 38 in February—and a chronic back ailment. He cut the finger to the bone in a shower room accident last Thursday in Colorado Springs, Colo., following a deer hunt.

With this development, there are three big question marks surrounding his baseball future:

1. Whether the grafting operation performed after the accident will prevent the crippling of his pitching hand.

2. How his back feels in spring training.

3. SUCCESS OF his oil business which will determine whether he wants to pitch another year for the $30,000 or so he can expect to earn.

Reynolds, who has often hinted at retirement the past two years, indicated he won't make his decision until he sees how the cut actually affects his pitching. The wound was to be examined today.

The hefty fireballer, who got off to a superb start last season, slowed considerably in the stretch and wound up with a 13-4 record. He has won 131 games and lost 60 in eight years with the Yanks, hurling two no-hitters in 1951 and reaching his peak in 1952 with a 20-8 mark.

No other pitcher has equalled his record of having appeared in 15 World Series games and his seven series victories ties another mark.

When Vann goes through a hand-off maneuver, upper right, it's up to opponents to instantly diagnose whether he has given the ball to another back, or kept it, lower left. Does he have the ball, or is he going to pass or run? Or is he just carrying out the feint? (NEA)

German Jumpers Take 1st Two Events in Horse Show

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—Hans Winkler, who works for an aspirin manufacturer in Germany, is giving headaches to the international horse set.

The world champion jumper from Frankfurt helped the West German team win two important international events yesterday as the National Horse Show opened at Madison Square Garden.

Winkler, a handsome dark haired man of 28, has been riding since 1948—the last two years in international shows. He won the world championship this year at Madrid after finishing second last year.

Last night he won the International Good Will challenge trophy over riders from Spain, Mexico, Canada and the United States on his 9-year-old mare Halla.

HANS IS A little man, only about 135 pounds, but he handles his mounts with the greatest of ease. Halla is his special prize. He believes his mare is fast developing into one of the best jumpers now in competition.

Halla skimmed over the difficult 10-jump course to win the Good Will with the only faultless ride of the night. Seven others knocked down one barrier each.

Winkler's teammate, Fritz Thiedemann on Nordstorn, also had a perfect ride in the afternoon low score team competition, won by the Germans. Although the West Germany and Mexican teams each had 12 faults, the Germans won on a time basis with 107.3 seconds to Mexico's 114.3 seconds. (The total elapsed time for the three contestants).

It was the first time since 1930 the German national anthem had blared forth at national show.

Holyoke, Mass.—Earl Dennis, 145, New York, stopped Young Sharkey, 141½, Holyoke, 5.

Galveston, Tex.—Chino Saavedra, 155, Torreon, Mexico, outpointed Ralph Capone, 134, Chicago, 10.

Lansbury Landslide

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 3—With returns in from all over the state, Lansbury crashes through with an unprecedented record breaking victory.

Veteran experts' pre-election prediction that no one would top Lansbury, proved they had the real inside information. As one expert shrewdly put it, "When you get a combination of the finest fabrics, plus the best in tailoring, plus real old fashioned, decent, honest to Betsy values, how are you going to beat it?"

Democrats Win

men, all carrying the personal endorsement of President Eisenhower.

In the new 84th Congress Pennsylvania will be represented by 16 Republicans and 14 Democrats. The old lineup was 19-11.

With 8,240 of the state's 8,647 precincts reported, Leader had 1,873,364 votes, Wood 1,634,917, a majority of 238,447.

The Democrats counted strong gains in the state Legislature, too.

However, Leader will face a hostile Senate as Republicans held at least 26 of the 50 seats. Republicans had a 32-18 advantage under Gov. John S. Fine last year.

Leader sewed up victory with big majorities in Philadelphia, Allegheny and Lackawanna counties—the state's three industrial centers—where his combined lead exceeded 215,000. In the remaining 64 counties, 28 of which he won, Leader's majority totalled about 25,000.

America's motels now number more than 50,576, an increase of 7220 in the past three years.

Democrats Win

men, all carrying the personal endorsement of President Eisenhower.

In the new 84th Congress Pennsylvania will be represented by 16 Republicans and 14 Democrats. The old lineup was 19-11.

With 8,240 of the state's 8,647 precincts reported, Leader had 1,873,364 votes, Wood 1,634,917, a majority of 238,447.

The Democrats counted strong gains in the state Legislature, too.

However, Leader will face a hostile Senate as Republicans held at least 26 of the 50 seats. Republicans had a 32-18 advantage under Gov. John S. Fine last year.

Leader sewed up victory with big majorities in Philadelphia, Allegheny and Lackawanna counties—the state's three industrial centers—where his combined lead exceeded 215,000. In the remaining 64 counties, 28 of which he won, Leader's majority totalled about 25,000.

America's motels now number more than 50,576, an increase of 7220 in the past three years.

The answers to everyday insurance problems*
By HERMAN J. EATON

QUESTION: I know an awful lot of people are buying some form of burglary or theft insurance but it seems to me this is just because the big insurance companies are doing a better selling job. Is the risk actually any greater than it was twenty years ago?

ANSWER: Actually the reason people buy more burglary and theft insurance is because crimes against property are steadily increasing as shown by F.B.I. statistics. Your own home is in much greater danger of being burglarized than it was even ten years ago.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

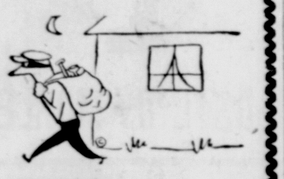
Now you Know!
The answers to everyday insurance problems*
By HERMAN J. EATON



QUESTION: I know an awful lot of people are buying some form of burglary or theft insurance but it seems to me this is just because the big insurance companies are doing a better selling job. Is the risk actually any greater than it was twenty years ago?

ANSWER: Actually the reason people buy more burglary and theft insurance is because crimes against property are steadily increasing as shown by F.B.I. statistics. Your own home is in much greater danger of being burglarized than it was even ten years ago.

* If you'll address your own insurance questions to this office we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be NO CHARGE or OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

Your soil has tons of fertilizer elements in it BUT it is not as available as it should be for your crops, because your soil is too acid. Acid soil also ties up the fertilizer elements that you apply in the form of commercial fertilizer.
Stop donating to this UNWORTHY CAUSE. Use our Agricultural Limestone and make your fertilizer do a better job and collect some of that FREE FERTILIZER. Our Agricultural Limestone contains magnesium.
